John Wardle Wins 1995 Ag Horizons Contest

YORK SPRINGS (Adams Co.) — In the distant past, high school ag teachers taught students how to farm. Now, ag science teachers are instructing potential leaders how to be a part of the total agricultural picture, which includes the many industries that depend on agriculture.

Through the work of involving agriculture science students in the Bermudian Springs School District, ag instructor John Wardle was honored as the 1995 Ag Horizons Contest winner. Wardle's winning proposal was "Agricultural Planning for the Future — A Community Approach."

Wardle attended the 1994 conference. The conference instructed ag teachers to be instrumental in developing agriculture educational for the next century in the communities in which they live, according to a release by the Ag Horizons Conference.

Contacted by telephone recently, Wardle said he helped instruct about 80 Bermudian Springs High School ag science students about the vital importance that agriculture plays in their lives.

"Farmland is not idle land," he said. "It is highly productive land. I try to foster this attitude in the minds of students, that the ag land issues are very important and we should strive to protect farmland."

Students are assigned to learning about agriculture and the environment at Bermudian Springs in 9th grade, where they are provided

Lancaster DHIA Becomes An Affiliate Of National

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — In 1993, National DHIA voted to drop state lines and allow members to receive service from the provider of their choice. "Affiliate" replaced the state name for service provider members of National DHIA. At the time, membership in the national organization was extended only to current members.

At the 1994 National DHIA Convention, delegates voted to open membership to any group with at least 30,000 cows or 30 herds.

Because of Lancaster DHIA's concentration of herds in the county, they qualified, and on May 15 officially became a direct affiliate of National DHIA.

Jay Mylin, manager, said this enables them to operate more efficiently.

"With dairy farmers today facing some of the lowest milk prices in 10 years, Lancaster DHIA is striving to reduce cost and provide the latest technology available in the marketplace," Mylin said.

"Gone are the days in DHIA when a state was responsible for serving all herds within its boundries. Today we have a new age of service. Because of competition in DHIA, many members are actually paying less and receiving more than they were three years ago."

Lancaster DHIA serves 1,180 dairy farmers with about 60,000 cows on test. They provide computer software (PCDART), official DHIA records, and many low-cost owner sampler programs.

A Visit To Pasture Green Farm Provides Lesson In History

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

MIDDLEBURG (Snyder Co.) — When you find Pasture Green Farm in a winding gravel lane, nestled on 120 acres of gently rolling fields, spring-touched meadows, scampering squirrels, and flowering fruit trees, you take a step back in time.

Not that Terry and Shirley Womer and their 15 year-old son Scott are behind the times. Located just south of Rt. 522 between Middleburg and Beaver Springs, they have one of the top registered Holstein herds in Snyder County. Until recently when Terry had a bout with an illness that required hospitalization, they were milking three times a day. They have shown the supreme champion for the last four years at the Beaver Fair. Their beautiful home-bred show cow, Pasture Green Enhancer Regency is a pet and was supreme champion at the fair last year as a six year-old from the 100,000lb. milk class. Regency's last record was 35,062m 3.8% 1330f 3.3% 1141p to push her over the 100,000 pound mark after just four lactations.

The step back in time comes when the Womers invite you into the circa 1800's restored summer kitchen for old-fashioned pumpkin cheesecake and a look at some of IMLER (Bedford Co.) — It was the fall of 1991 when Lori Snider of Imler was called to chair the women's section of the National Holstein Convention scheduled for Pittsburgh from June 24 through June 29.

"I gave it some thought before saying 'yes'," says this pretty farm wife who is married to Bruce Snider, a partner with his father, Obie, of Singing Brook Farm.

Had she known she was going to have a fourth child, Rachel, now 2, during the interim, she might not have been so quick to agree. "But, the Lord has helped me," she quickly assures. "And

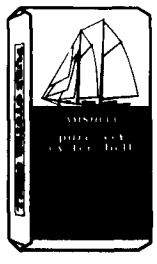
TIPS TO IMPROVE EGGSHELL QUALITY...

Dr Milton Scott
Nutritional Consultant

"Check calcium separation"

Samples taken at different locations in the same feed line at the hopper outlet, the far end of the house and at the return, often show a wide variation in calcium levels. Both excessive levels (which cause hens to back off feed) and low levels---prevent adequate calcium intake and cause poor shell quality. Oyster shell's specific gravity (0.86) is close to that of a typical layer ration. This helps prevent Ca separation and build up.



For details on sampling for Ca separation, and the use of oyster shells, contact The Fox Co., PO Box 708, Newfield, NJ 08344.

Although the final majority price was higher, the weighted average was lower when compared to last week. Movement off farms continued to be fully adequate to ample and most slaughter time has been booked well into the weeks ahead. Finished sales were slow at declining values. Undertone weak.

National Grain Market

ST. JOSEPH, MO
JUNE 7, 1995

Wheat bids continued lower on harvest pressure and fund selling as recent highs seemed overdone. Corn bids were pushed lower on profit taking and planting progress. Soybean bids were narrowly mixed. Wheat 3 to 13 cents lower. Corn mostly 1 to 2 cents lower. Sorghum 3 to 4 cents lower. Soybeans mixed. Additional corrections were made in wheat pits today, driving bids moderately lower. Harvest pressure for both hard and soft red winter wheat weighed on bids. Some profit taking on the board was also a negative factor. Good export demand limited declines and indications Egypt has bid for 350,000 tonnes of US wheat may give wheat bids a boost soon. Profit taking kept corn bids slipping lower. Planting has progressed over the past couple of days as farmers keep at it every chance they get. Scattered rains, however, continued to show up in the Midwest. Export demand picked up slightly.

Soybean bids were mixed as Midwest weather continued to be unpredictable. Bean meal showed some board weakness but improved export demand, helped to underpin bids.

The Old Farmer's Almanac This Week With

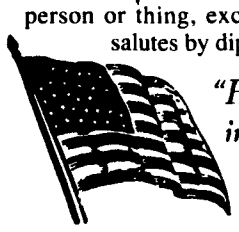
FULL STRAWBERRY MOON, JUNE 12.

BURN THE FLAG?

In flag etiquette, the proper disposal of a tattered flag is to burn it with dignity. Flag Day, celebrating the adoption of the Stars and Stripes by the Continental Congress in 1777, falls on June 14th, as decreed by Congress in 1949. Other rules of flag etiquette state that a flag should be hoisted briskly, lowered ceremoniously, and generally flown only from sunrise to sunset. In special circumstances, when the flag is flown at night, it should be well lit. Improper uses include any desecration, public burning, or mutilation of the flag. It should not be allowed to touch the ground or dipped to any person or thing, except, customarily, when a ship salutes by dipping its colors.



"Hats off! The flag is passing by." — Henry Holcomb Bennett

TIP OF THE WEEK

☞ The best air fresheners are fresh flowers, a dish of vinegar set out to absorb odors, or cloves and cinnamon in boiling water.

CANDIED SWEET FLAG

Be sure to select sweet flag, Acorus calamus, (an iris-type flower) and use only fully ripe sweet flag roots. Clean the roots thoroughly, cut into squares, and boil gently in water to cover for 2½ to 3 hours. Drain. Mix up a solution of equal parts sugar and water and boil the roots for about 30 minutes until the syrup becomes candied. Drain off syrup, and place roots on wax paper to dry.

The Old Farmer's Weather Proverbs

If St. Vitus' Day (June 15) be rainy weather,
It will rain for 30 days together.

No weather is ill,
If the wind be still.

Special Offer. Handy chart full of interesting weather proverbs. Send $3 to Weather Chart, Dept. UF, The Old Farmer's Almanac, Box 520, Dublin, NH 03444.

There's something extra in a starter fertilizer program.

Starter fertilizers unlock benefits for corn farmers. They stimulate seedling growth, hasten crop maturity, improve crop tolerance to some insects, increase crop competition with weeds and frequently increase yields, particularly in production fields featuring conservation tillage and irrigation. Starter fertilizers make crop production more environmentally sound because they improve fertilizer uptake efficiency.

The agronomic benefits of starter fertilizers increase crop productivity and profits from corn production.

OPINION

All Milk Safe From Antibiotic Residues

Tests to screen all loads of milk for antibiotics at a level of five parts per billion have been used throughout the U.S. since January 1, 1995. This means that consumers will not get any of the six beta lactam classes (penicillin) or any illegal drugs in the milk which they buy and consume.

According to Ronald Hostetler, Cambria County agent, screening tests have been standardized at the most sensitive level of 5 ppb, which they can detect with reproducible results. Pennsylvania has been screening loads of milk with the best tests available for nearly three decades.

The Food and Drug Adminstration has determined that based on the latest available technology that this is a safe level. With any test or technology it is not practical or possible to attain a zero level.

Presently every load of milk received at a processing plant in Pennsylvania is sampled prior to unloading and processing and tested by one or more screening tests. Any load positive at the 5 ppb level is disposed of for other than human food. Because antibiotics are used to treat sick milk cows, more than 2,000,000 pounds of milk had to be disposed of in the January through March period.

Similar procedures are used in all states with more than 68 million pounds being dumped in fiscal year 1994. These levels are being reduced as success reaches more than 99 percent by the action of dairy farmers who withold and dump milk from treated cows. This is the way it should be.

Therefore, because of proper action by dairy farmers and the aggressive testing procedures, consumers can be sure that the fluid milk and dairy products they buy are safe and free from harmful antibiotics.

Editor,

On Memorial Day, May 29, a tornado took down the chicken house on the Roy Weaver farm on Camp Rodgers Road, Ephrata. For the next three days, friends and neighbors came to help and brought food for the workers. We would like to thank everyone who helped us. We are fortunate to live in an area where people are so willing to put aside their own work to help a neighbor. We really do need each other.

To Choose A Guardian

Death and taxes may not be anyone's favorite topics. However, people seem more willing to plan for them than illness and disability that may occur anytime.

Most people plan for death by having a legally valid will. But most people seem reluctant to provide for someone to take care of matters while they are still alive but incapable of managing their affairs.

A legal guardianship assigns the financial responsibilities of one person to another. People who need a guardian because they are physically or mentally unable to manage their finances receive a guardian by assigning one themselves or allowing the court to assign one.

When the courts appoint a guardian, they consider kinship and geographical proximity. This could be a person the ward would not have chosen themselves. In addition, a court-appointed guardian faces a tremendous burden of paperwork and bureaucracy. Each purchase and many financial transactions must be justified to the court's satisfaction.

With the help of a lawyer, draw up a simple, durable power of attorney that will assign responsibility to a guardian of your choice. This makes things easier for the ward and the guardian. The problem with a durable power of attorney is that it may be drawn up only when the person is still capable of making important legal decisions. When you are incapacitated, it is too late.

Protect yourself and your family by drawing up a durable power of attorney.

To Know Alternative Uses Of Corn

Corn is now being used for more than animal feed. High fructose corn syrup is the sweetener of choice in the expanding soft drink industry.

Corn is also a basic ingredient in the production of high quality vitamins and amino acids which were previously derived only from the petro-chemical industry.

In addition, we are seeing exciting developments in a number of new product areas. An increasing number of privately owned ethanol plants have been started in Iowa. Ethanol is a clean burning alcohol derived from corn. It is also a renewable energy resource.

The increased demand for prepared foods boosts the corn processing industry, which provides many of the starches, syrups, and oils found in microwave, ready to eat products.

Corn starch has also found a role in the manufacture of recycled paper and the reduction of pollution in waste water from paper mills. Research has also shown that corn products may replace salt as an ice melt.

All these new uses were made possible from research. It is another example of how funded research creates new demands for products.

To Be Aware Of Poisonous Plants

Summer storms and dried-up pastures are two conditions that increase animals' exposures to poisonous plants in pastures.

A variety of poisonous plants are present on many farms. Fortunately, animals generally have the good sense of not eating them.

However, very hungry and not well-fed animals will be more likely to eat poisonous plants.

One of the leading causes of poisoning is wilted wild cherry leaves. Limbs may break as a result of storm damage. As the leaves wilt, the levels of hydrogen cyanide and sugars increase, making the leaves more poisonous and more palatable. Once the leaves become completely dry and brown, they become safe.

Yew clippings is another source of livestock poisoning. Some other toxic plants are Jimson weed, black nightshade, hemlock, bracken fern and rhododendron and azaleas.

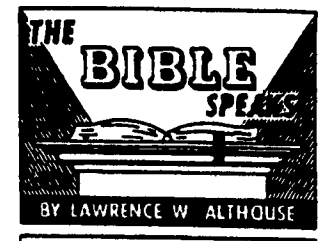
To help prevent weed poisoning in cattle:

- Be sure animals are adequately fed before turning them out to pasture.
- Remove broken wild cherry limbs from cow areas.

Never throw ornamental clippings into or next to pastures.

- Clip pastures regularly or use an approved or labeled herbicide to control unwanted weeds.

Feather Prof.'s Footnote: "Begin each day with a personal outlook that will open doors, welcome opportunity, and bring serenity."



WHY ARE YOU LIMPING?
June 11, 1995

Background Scripture:
I Kings 18
Devotional Reading:
Deuteronomy 6:5-15a

In our newspaper recently I read an article reporting a poll of the American public indicating that 95 percent of those polled said they believed in God or some ultimate being!

At first, I was pleasantly surprised, but, after giving it some thought, it occurred to me that I need not have been so surprised. In my own experience I have found just about everyone I've known could fit into that 95 percentile. Actually, I've personally known only one professional atheist and that was 50 years ago. I've known some agnostics — while the atheist does not believe in God, the agnostic believes that we cannot know if there is a God.

But that doesn't mean that the balance of people left after you subtract the atheists and agnostics believe essentially the same. So, more important than whether people believe in a deity is the kind of deity in which they believe.

THE NAZI GOD

In the 1930s and '40s many Nazis believed both in God and Adolph Hitler. Dietrich Bonhoeffer, a German Lutheran pastor, protested that Nazism and Christianity were incompatible. The God of Jesus Christ, he said, was not the god of the Third Reich. For those pronouncements he was thrown into a concentration camp and just 50 years ago he was executed by the Third Reich.

During the Middle Ages there arose in the Church, a diabolical phenomenon called the Inquisition. Some brave souls, martyrs most of them, protested that the God of Jesus was not the god of the Inquisition. Historians have helped us to understand that neither was the God of Jesus Christ the god of the Crusades, nor of many of the other aberrations that have often been paraded under the banner of Christianity or some other religion.

In our own times Christianity has been used as a cloak to lend respectability to other blasphemies against the God of Jesus Christ. Islam, Buddhism, and Hinduism have also been abused in a like manner. Someone has commented that God made us in his own image and we have returned the favor. Too often the god we present to the world is not the God of Jesus Christ but a projection of human passions and prejudices.

WHO IS GOD?

So in I Kings 18 the prophet Elijah comes to the people of Israel — and to us — with two great imperatives: "If the Lord is God, follow him; but if Baal, then follow him" (21). First, the people must decide who is God. Is it the Lord or is it Baal? Is it the Creator/Savior God of Abraham, Isaac, Israel, Moses and Joshua, or is it the licentious deity of the Baalists? And for us it is imperative that we too decide what is the nature of the God in whom we will believe, is he the God of love revealed in Christ or the god of prejudice and injustice, the deity of selfish privilege? Just because we call ourselves Christians doesn't mean the god we serve is the Lord.

Once we have decided that, we come to the second imperative: follow the God you have chosen. It is not enough to say you believe in him, but to live as Jesus Christ has shown us. The problem is that often we try to profess one God but serve many. We salute the Lord of Jesus Christ but we pattern our lives and our society on other gods. Elijah chided the Israelites, saying: "How long will you keep hopping from one leg to another?" — switching from one god to another? Choose just one and live accordingly.

Elijah's challenge is just as timely for us: Why are you professing one God but failing to serve Him alone? Why are you still limping?

FOR DOUBLE-CROP SOYBEANS THERE'S ONLY ONE LEADER OF THE PACK.

PURSUIT® herbicide is today's best tool for double-crop beans. It not only delivers the highest degree of overall weed control, it's also the only postemergence product that combines contact and residual activity to give you superior control of more than 40 tough-to-control grasses and broadleaf weeds. Including velvetleaf, foxtails, cocklebur, pigweeds, nightshades, common ragweed, giant ragweed, sunflower, shattercane and seedling Johnsongrass. Without causing crop injury. And because of its advanced chemistry and low rates of application, PURSUIT offers a responsible choice for the environment. That's the kind of leadership everyone can respect. And reason enough to try PURSUIT. See us soon.

DEUTZ FAHR

Round Balers

DEUTZ FAHR

GREENLAND

Quality Equipment To Preserve Quality Crops.

Here Are Just A Few Reasons Why....

Standard Equipment on all Balers include:

- Hydraulically controlled pickup with dual pneumatic gauge wheels, baffle plate and galvanized scrapers.
- Efficient pickup tine spacing and open throat design to gently handle even large windrows without plugging.
- Internally re-enforced ribbed profile rollers, (17 on GP230, 22 on GP250) are designed to eliminate wedging and wrapping in wet crops, and reduce leaf loss in dry material. Ribbed profile rollers are less aggressive than large "dimpled" sheets.
- Driven roller shafts are splined, not keyed, for long life. No external chains and rollers bearings to replace either!
- Extra sturdy fixed chamber design:
  GP230 makes 4x4 bales
  GP250 makes 4x5 bales
- Central control, tractor mounted "Pilot Box" for electronic and hydraulic functions with both audible and visual indications.
- Single acting hydraulic remote is all that's needed for all hydraulic functions.
- Automatic chain lubrication system.
- Fully automatic "twin-fix" twine tying system, the fastest in the industry. (14 seconds!)
  (Optional net wrap attachment can be added any time)
- Bale ejector with extendable ramps.
- Safety light package.
- Wide angle PTO shaft.
- Wide, heavy ply tires.

"Opticut" models available to increase high moisture bale density and bale feedability.

Northeast DHIA Recognizes Quality Award Winners

ITHACA, N.Y. — Each year through the Somatic Cell Program, Northeast DHIA recognizes members who have achieved an average somatic cell count or 175,000 cells or less with the Outstanding Quality Milk Award.

Somatic cells are white blood cells and milk secreting cells normally found in milk. However, the healthier your herd's udders are, the lower you count will be. When the somatic cell count is high, it usually means infection is being fought in the udder. Infection gets in the udder through the teat end.

Achieving and maintaining a low somatic cell count is the result of excellent cow management, careful milking procedures, and good milking equipment maintenance. Out of the approximate 4,200 members that Northeast DHIA serves, 496 were honored with this award. Not only are these winners producing healthy herds, and increasing their milk production, but they are setting a standard for the entire dairy industry. Milk with a lower somatic cell count has a longer shelf life, and results in higher yields of cultured products.

The 496 winners of this distinguished award have overcome some great hurdles, and are striving for excellence in what can sometimes seem like a thankless job. Northeast DHIA applauds them, their commitment and their success.

Hay Day Features Forage Harvester Demo

MOUNT AIRY (Lancaster Co.) — About 225 Claas customers attended the Claas Hay Day here on the fields owned by Ervin Horst, across from the Thomas Zartman Farm, on Thursday afternoon to see the new Jaguar 800 Series forage harvester and other harvesting equipment.

According to Richard S. Leap, Claas of America senior marketing representative from Columbus, Ind., the Hay Day was held to showcase new products, including the Jaguar 820 forage harvester, the 46 Roto Cut round baler, and the 1200 Hi Moisture Big Rectangular Baler.

Demonstrations of the balers were held on the farm. Claas offered a free lunch for those who attended the Hay Day, which allowed customers to compare what they needed for their operations, said Leap.

The Jaguar 820 demonstration highlighted some of the forage harvesting qualities of the equipment. The 820 is equipped with a V-6 Mercedes Benz engine rated at 305 HP. Chop lengths are 5/32, 13/64, ¼, 7/32, 9/16, and 21/32.

Five AI Cooperatives Announce Supply Agreement

SHAWANO, Wi. — 21st Century Genetics, Shawano, Wisconsin and Noba, Inc., Tiffin, Ohio, subsidiaries of Cooperative Resources International, and Atlantic Breeders Cooperative, Lancaster, Pennsylvania, Easten AI Cooperative, Ithaca, New York, and Louisiana Animal Breeders Cooperative, Baton Rouge, Louisiana, partners in Federated Genetics, have announced a supply agreement whereby the five AI cooperatives will jointly market semen throughout the United States on all dairy and beef bulls routinely sold by the organizations.

With the agreement, members and customers of the five AI cooperatives will have available, from a single source, the greatest selection of dairy and beef sires in the United States. The agreement also positions the organizations to improve efficiencies in marketing, research, product development and service for all members and customers.

This agreement, which took effect June 1, 1995, has been approved by the Boards of Directors of each of the organizations. It is a perfect example of what cooperation is all about . . . cooperatives working together for the betterment of the farmers and ranchers they serve.

Although this supply agreeent became effective June 1, total implementation of the transition in some areas will not be completed for several weeks.

A Visit To Pasture Green Farm Provides Lesson In History

the most interesting farm antique pieces you can find anywhere. The wide floor boards, the chair rail, and the plain rough plaster walls provide the setting for an old restored kitchen table set just like grandma would have done it.

A wood fire in the old kitchen range with the black stove pipe visible from firebox to wall chimney casts a comfortable warm glow throughout the well-lighted room and provides the baking and cooking power for many of the extended family's holiday dinners. The delicious tasting cake verifies the assertion that baking in an old range makes better tasting goods than any modern appliance ever could.

A Sellers kitchen cabinet adds to the functional part of the room. And a 1911 De Laval cream separator in the corner and many other De Laval pieces such as an agate farm sign, wall posters and tin product cans bring out the nostalgia of the farm. In fact, De Laval pieces are a speciality. One of the most unique pieces in the collection is a De Laval parts cabinet that still has some of the original parts in the compartments.

Many pieces of literature are in the De Laval collection. And all three of the breed tin cow and calf advertising pieces (Holstein, Guernsey, and Jersey) are in the collection, as well as some of the paper cow pieces made in the late '50s and early '60s.

"This all started," Shirley said, "when we jacked up this old summer kitchen to the level of the house. At the time, junk was stored in it, but we got the idea to restore the room to its original condition. When that was done, we needed pieces to complete the setting, and that's how this collecting business all started."

Before the kitchen was even completely restored, the old cook stove was in place and used to make a family meal. That was back in 1989. About the same time, an elderly man's farm museum collection in Union County was sold at an eight-day auction. Many of the tools and cream separators ended up in the Womer's new/old summer kitchen.

Of course, antique collecting becomes contagious. Soon Scott, at the encouragement of his parents, began collecting old corn shellers, two-cylinder John Deere tractors, farm toys, and two old Ford trucks. Scott has a lot of work to do on these antique vehicles to have them ready by next year when he gets his driver's license.

In 1992, the youth's collecting interest took him to the National Two-Cylinder Club Expo III in Waterlou, Iowa, as an exhibitor. At this show he received a limited edition exhibitor's toy tractor. Since only 1000 of these models were made, it is now worth over $600.

Shirley's parents, Gene and Janet Willow, Millerstown, share in the antique fever too. The number of pieces became great enough that the Willows and the Womers built a two-story 30' x 90' steel pole building on the Willow's farm to house the collections. Among the store: treadle sewing machines, an old dog treadmill, cherry seeders, meat grinders, an old John Deere manure spreader with a wooden apron chain that is also the floor, and a horse collar bench. Actually, they don't know how many pieces they have, but everything has a story behind it.

In furniture, they refinish everything themselves. Scott's bedroom suite is the work of the family. An old oak ice box in the kitchen shows this handiwork too.

"We should all have a hobby," Shirley said. "The stress of farming is too great not to have an outlet. For us, this is also an investment."

An early 1900s model country store has been set up in one area of the new building, complete with a sign, old door, and shutters from the house. Inside this historical store are old boxes, tins, a copper kettle with apple butter stirrer, and a butter churn.

On weekends the family can be found at an auction or visiting flea markets in search of that piece in the collection that is still missing. But of course they don't venture very far from home because they need to be back for the evening milking. Even so, they have a great time together as a family and have assembled a remarkable collection in a very short time.

"In a few years the "kids" won't know what this stuff is or what it was used for," Shirley said.

"How many know what this stuff is even now," Scott counters. "We even have some things we don't know what they are."

But Scott knows what a lot of this stuff is. He's a step ahead of his peers when it comes to completing school projects. For example, in one of his 10th grade assignments, he produced a video on the subject of the history of farming. Needless to say, with all the history surrounding him at home, the project turned out well and captured a perfect 100 for his efforts.

"We concluded that for us, cows were not going to consume every moment of our lives," Shirley said. "We enjoy cows, but we also enjoy being part of the educational process that helps the next generation know what happened on the farm in years past. To do this, we collect farm antiques."

U.S. Hosts 14th World Jersey Conference

REYNOLDSBURG, Ohio — "World Focus on Jerseys" was the theme of the 14th World Jersey Conference held May 7-16 in Monterey and Modesto, California. International guests were in attendance from Argentina, Australia, Brazil, Canada, Costa Rica, Denmark, England, Germany, Guatemala, Island of Jersey, Japan, Kenya, Mexico, New Zealand, Northern Ireland, Scotland, South Africa, Uruguay, and Zimbabwe.

Conference participants met to discuss recent research focusing on Jerseys and milk marketing. A "Farmer's Forum" chaired by Dan Bansen, Oregon, had panelists from Denmark, England, New Zealand, U.S.A. and Zimbabwe discussing the question, "What are you doing on your dairy farm to maximize profitable milk production?"

Farm visits were arranged in Oregon prior to the conference. Farms in the Central Valley and Ferndale areas of California hosted visitors during the conference. Sightseeing tours were held to San Francisco, the California Redwoods, Napa Valley, Monterey area and Yosemite National Park.

Approximately 600 people attended the Pride of the West sale held during the conference.

Scott takes a ride on his restored two-cylinder John Deere antique tractor.

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.l) — The agenda has been set for the Pa.DHIA 71st Annual Technicians' Conference.

The summer conference is held in conjunction with the spring and fall conference.

On June 16 and 17, Pa.DHIA technicians are to travel to the Pennsylvania town of Indiana where the conference is to be held at the Holdiay Inn.

Registration begins at 10:30 a.m. June 16 and continues until lunch. After lunch, the conference begins with a welcome address and introduction of guests by Dean Amick, director of Field Operations, David Slusser, general manager, and Jay Risser, president of the Technicians Association.

Preceeding the welcome and introductions is to be the viewing of a video called, "Sales." After viewing the video, technicians are to be given a training program on sales by David Zimmerman, district manager for Atlantic Breeders Cooperative.

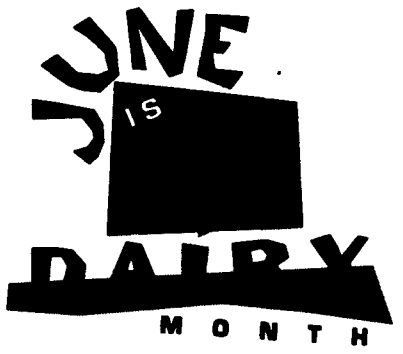
Following the sales presentations, a motivational presentation by Ron Eberhard is scheduled. Eberhard's presentation is to focus on getting people motivated to complete the job of a sales person.

An awards breakfast is to be held Saturday morning. This activity is held to recognize the high achievements of the technicians and to recognize their years of service to Pa.DHIA.

Following the awards breakfast, a panel discussion is to be held to discuss a new nutrition program and the Westfalia Dairy Plan.

Technicians are to be updated on their benefits following the panel discussion.

For more information on the conference, or to see how Pa.DHIA, can assist a dairy operation, call (800) 344-8378.



Average Farm Feed Costs For Handy Reference

To help farmers across the state to have handy reference of commodity input costs in their feeding operations for DHIA record sheets or to develop livestock feed cost data, here's last week's average costs of various ingredients as compiled from regional reports across the state of Pennsylvania. Remember these are averages so you will need to adjust your figures up or down according to your location and the quality of your crop.

Milk For The Hungry Shipped To Haiti

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — "Today a few pounds (of milk) and then a few pounds the next day," said Ben Kauffman, Chester County dairyman, "and by the end of the year, we believe we have fed another family in some hungry part of the world for a year."

Kauffman and his wife Erma visited the Mennonite Central Committee (MCC) warehouse with friends Wednesday morning to see some of the powdered milk their raw milk contribution had helped purchase. This powdered milk was being loaded on a 40-foot container to be shipped to war-torn Haiti.

The raw milk for dried milk trade-off program is sponsored by Atlantic Dairy Cooperative and MCC to allow Atlantic members to designate the number of pounds of milk each day to be contributed from their farm to the world hunger program. Atlantic automatically deducts the value of the contributed pounds and sends the money to MCC to make the powdered milk purchases and distribute it to needy parts of the world.

"It's so easy," Kauffman said. "If I were to write the check at the end of the year, it would be difficult. But Atlantic takes it off the check until I tell them differently. Sometimes I think we don't give enough. We are blessed in so many ways. Farm technology is so great. We are able to do so much with so little effort. Our 60-cow herd can almost be handled by one person."

The Kauffmans with daughter Jeanette operate Timberview registered Holstein farm near Cochranville.

Most of the funding for the 8.5 tons of non-fat dry milk powder sent to Haiti this week was provided by members of Atlantic. Participating farmers have a specified amount of milk deducted from the cooperative accounts each month. This milk or the cash equivalent is used by MCC to feed the hungry in countries around the world.

In addition of the dried milk in this shippment medical supplies were going to Hospital Albert Schweitzer (HAS) located in Haiti's Artibonite Valley. HAS is a private hospital that has provided essential medical care to the 185,000 people in the region for about 40 years.

There has been little time since the military intervention in Haiti last September to improve the local food supply. Reports from the hospital say malnutrition among both children and adults has increased 60 percent in the last three years.

Milk powder is valuable in dealing with the problem of protein-calorie malnutrition in young children. This food deficiency can cause stunted growth, susceptibility to infections, and permanent brain damage. The milk powder is fortified with vitamins A & D.

Ten pounds of whole milk makes just over one pound of dry milk powder. Each pound of dry milk powder makes nearly 17 cups of reconstituted milk for the recipients of the benevolent effort. That makes nearly 700 cups of reconstituted milk per bag. Nutritionists and health workers in Haiti will supervise the mixing of milk powder with pure water.

This kind of effort is an ongoing activity as MCC works to fulfill its mission of relief service to many regions of the world. The MCC warehouse is located at 517 Trout Run Road in Ephrata. And their offices are located at 21 South 12th Street in Akron.

Anyone who would wish to participate in this benevolent milk program may contact their Atlantic Dairy Cooperative representative or call the MCC office at (717) 859-1151.

Erma and Ben Kauffman, Chester County dairy farmers, show some of the bags of milk powder that was ready to be shipped to war-torn Haiti from the Mennonite Central Committee this week. The Kauffmans participate in Atlantic Dairy Cooperative's benevolent milk exchange program to support MCC's food for the hungry efforts. One bag of milk provides 700 cups of milk when reconstituted at the place of need.

Strawberry Roundup Champions Reap Benefits Of Hard Work, Patience

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Diana Erb knows patience. She waited for the strawberries to ripen on the vine. The darker, the better and tastier.

Diana knows perseverence. The four-year 4-H'er said she did a "lot of weeding" of her supreme champion strawberries right after planting.

Diana, CV Community 4-H Club member, knows hard work. She sat with her brother on a two-row transplanter and put in 100 of the plants on her parents' farm, Jim and Romaine Erb, at the Brooklawn Farm Market on Route 501.

Diana was up at 5 in the morning on Wednesday, picking the finest berries, which netted her supreme champion and $225 for her two quarts at the annual Rotary Club 4-H Strawberry Roundup at noon at the Farm and Home Center.

Diana, 13, who was supreme champion last year, knows how to plan. Diana, an eighth grader at Locust Grove Mennonite School, will invest the money in a savings account for college.

At the auction following the luncheon, long-time 4-H supporter and Pennfield Chairman Donald Horn purchased the award-winning strawberries for $225.

For Jeff, following the example set by his sister paid off when he reaped $80 for his reserve grand champion strawberries. William C. Heyn, Lancaster, purchased the berries. Jeff, 10, is in the fifth grade at Locust Grove Mennonite.

Ted Shenk, Donegal Gardens, Mount Joy, served as show judge. Shenk said that the champion "Earlyglow" strawberries had good size, uniformity, and quality.

In all, there were a total of 14 entries.

John Schwartz, extension director, told the Rotarians that the entries provide evidence that "this is one of the best years in county strawberry growing history."

Harold Keller, auctioneer, marked the 35th time he has auctioned strawberries at the roundup in the county, according to Schwartz.

Kandi Mullen, Peach Bottom, spoke to the Rotarians about her experience as a 4-H ambassador and the "importance of patience and importance of hard work." A strawberry roundup contestant, Kandi was part of a state delegation that attended the 4-H Congress in Orlando, Fla. She is enrolled at Lockhaven University, preparing for a career in secondary education.

Zoann Parker, 4-H agent, thanked the Rotarians for their support and in the donations received to help 4-H'ers with projects. One Rotarian donation to the countys' 4,000-member 4-H organization is the $100 that goes toward record books.

Each 4-H member is allowed to enter two quarts to be auctioned after the luncheon.

Following is a listing of placings and amounts paid for the berries:

Stephen Leaman, Lancaster, CV Community Club, third, $85; Lynn Ressler, Solanco, fourth, $85; Lee Ressler, Solanco, fifth, $75; Collette Adams, Lancaster, CV Community Club, sixth, $85; Janene Leaman, Lancaster, CV Community Club, seventh, $45; Derek Stoner, Lancaster, CV Community Club, eighth, $30; Kandi Mullen, Peach Bottom, Solanco, ninth, $90; Allison Hughes, Lancaster, Woolies, 10th, $55; Megan Holloway, Peach Bottom, Solanco, 11th, $55; Melissa Holloway, Peach Bottom, Solanco, 12th, $50; Durelle Leaman, Lancaster, CV Community Club, 13th, $55; and Jimmy Mullen, Peach Bottom, Solanco, 14th, $57.50.

Williams Farm Site For 60th Anniversary Of Conservation Effort

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

MIDDLETOWN (Dauphin Co.) — The years of social and governmental efforts to promote stewardship of the land was applauded last Friday as federal and state officials gathered in Middletown at the Tom and Theresa "Tiz" Williams' family farm to recognize the 60th anniversary of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS).

The recognition event was held in the front lawn of the Williams' farmhouse, at Bryncoed Farms, a 280-head commercial Jersey dairy operation on 200 owned acres and 100 rented.

Williams was named 1995 Dauphin County Conservation Farmer of the Year, and was featured in the April 29 issue of Lancaster Farming.

If the name and acronym, "NRCS," aren't initially recognizable, that's because the agency has been reorganized and renamed within the past year. The agency was formerly called the Soil Conservation Service, or more informally, the "SCS."

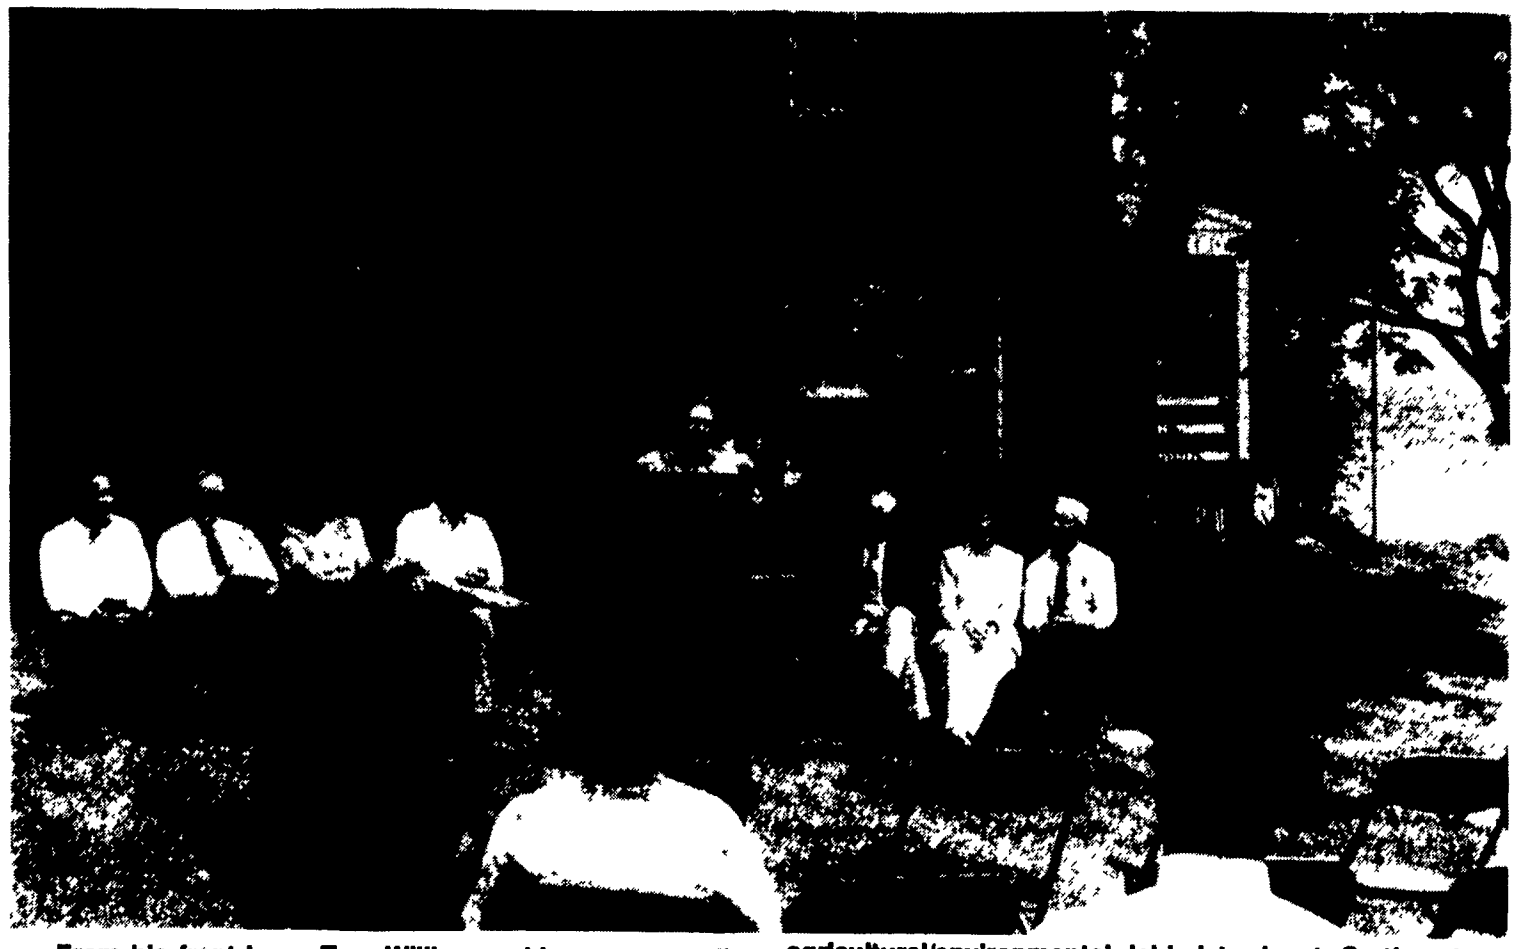
The change in name was part of a plan by former U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Mike Espy to streamline the federal agricultural agency, eliminate waste and improve services.

As part of that strategy, last October the previous Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) became the Consolidated Farm Services Agency (CFSA), with added responsibilities transferred from other areas; while the SCS, again with some changes, became the NRCS.

The name change also reflects the fact that while soil conservation may have been the primary selling point to get the agency started, the result of soil conservation has been to boost the conservation of fresh water and other resources.

The devastation of the Dust Bowl, the Depression and slow adoption of sound tilling and cropping practices (which actually had been available for years prior to the Dust Bowl), made more and more people realize that continuing to till sloped, unterraced fields results in the loss of the land for dependable cropping.

Meanwhile, it should be understood that many more people farmed, and while there were some good farmers, many more still conducted cropping practices that depleted not only the nutrients from the soils, but the soil itself, leaving the remaining topsoil suitable only for tough weeds, nothing, or requiring heavy and repeated fertilization to compensate for the lack of soil structure.



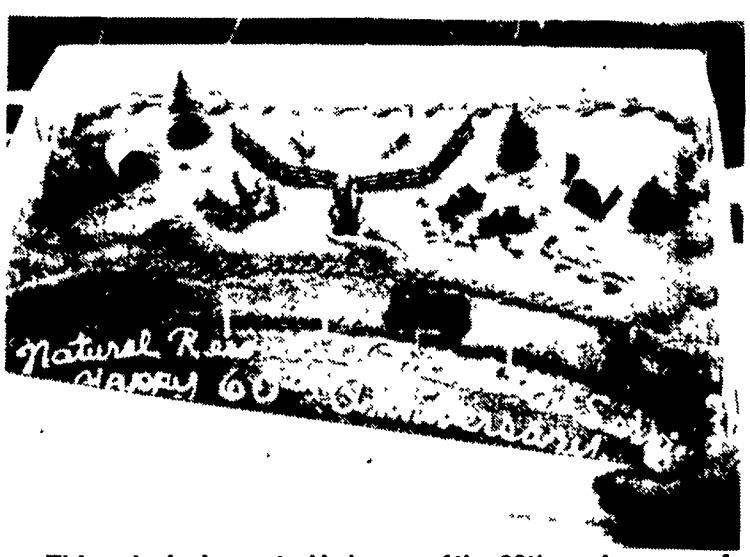
From his front lawn, Tom Williams addresses an audience observing the 60th anniversary of the USDA's conservation efforts. From the left, sitting, are program participants Bernard Hoffnar, executive director of the Pa. Association of Conservation Districts; George Wolff, agricultural/environmental lobbyist; Janet Oertly, state conservationist NRCS; Brad Hicks, television newscaster; Charles Brosius, secretary of agriculture; Rep. Sheila Miller, R-Berks; and Richard VanNoy, chief of the Division of Conservation Districts.

Also, technology and education widely enjoyed today, wasn't necessarily available to everyone then, though it existed, through such institutions as the Pennsylvania State University which had originally been an agricultural school.

Further, agricultural education was stressed by the nation's founding fathers, who in a business decision for the young country, began the practice of subsidizing county fairs to spread agricultural education.

Credited to George Washington in some reports, the practice of education through county fairs was done so farmers could better learn the latest agricultural techniques and possible cash crops, and thus put America in a better position to compete in international markets.

While perhaps oversimplifying the history, the conservation movement came along as early short-term profiteers followed commercial trappers and hunters (they harvested in a fashion similar to some modern commercial ocean fishing, in that once very plentiful stocks of wildlife were depleted or very nearly depleted before the practices were stopped through a lack of wild animal life to harvest and sell), and stripped forests for lumber, the ground for minerals and the soil for crops and moved on, leaving environmental devastation in the wake.



This cake is decorated in honor of the 60th anniversary of USDA federal-state-county and individual cooperation for conservation.

Those who took up the lands after the first wave were left with little to continue to use, but the land and other resources responded to conservation practices. They still do.

The general concept of conservation is simple, while achieving it has been more difficult.

The key concept is to use land practices which retain soil, water and nutrients on the farm, for the health of the farm.

The approach to farming this way is to provide long-term and continued benefits.

One of the most significant early practices promoted was the use of contour plowing. Contour plowing, simply, is the practice of creating rows that run along the contours of the land, to create, in effect a series of mini-terraces, which act to dam the flow of surface water, or impede it from streaming downhill.

Williams farm was recognized because of the many practices implemented on the farm starting with Tom's father Sam Williams, who was one of the first in his area to adopt a conservation plan through the SCS, and installed a farm pond 60 years ago to impede the flow of water and soil from the farm, while also creating a supply of water to use during drought.

Tom has added to the practices greatly, such as using newspaper bedding and manure injection to build organic matter which acts to further retain nutrients and moisture, continuing the development of the farm into the lush-looking site it currently is.

While most Pennsylvania farms utilize some form of conservation farming, even though many practices may be considered traditional now, the USDA Soil Conservation Service, through the concepts of those who originally called for the agency's creation and the workings of many concerned with carrying out those objectives and goals, is recognized for its successes in helping people farm better for themselves and those around them.

A proclamation from Gov. Tom Ridge and one from the state House of Representatives were read aloud. Both documents were presented to the Pennsylvania NRCS office, with its headquarters building in Harrisburg near the state Department of Agriculture Building.

Rep. Sheila Miller, R-Berks, presented the House proclamation, that she sponsored.

Proclamations normally are constructed as a series of statements preceeded by "Whereas," with a the final summary statement beginning with "Therefore ..."

In the proclamation Rep. Miller sponsored, it states that April 23-29 was Natural Resources Conservation Week and,

"Whereas, (sic) the people across this land wish to live in harmony with natural resources, and wish to bequeath a better Earth to their children and grandchildren; and

"Whereas, conservationists across this beautiful country work hand in hand with the American people to conserve all natural resources to create a healthy land; and

"Whereas, leadership for conservation of natural resources on private lands is provided by a partnership of conservation districts, state conservation agencies, and USDA's Natural Resources Conservation Service; and

"Whereas, it is fitting that we show appreciation for the efforts of landowners and landusers to conserve our natural resources by attempting to increase awareness among all Americans of the importance of our natural resources.

"Now therefore, the House of Representatives ... pays tribute to the (NRCS) upon this momentous occasion, gratefully acknowledges the efforts of conservationists to protect and preserve our natural resources; urges all citizens to join in recognizing the importance of conservation and in celebrating this great land ..."

Secretary of Agriculture Charles Brosius presented the proclamation from Gov. Tom Ridge, which dedicated June 2 as Natural Resources Conservation Day.

"Whereas, citizens across the commonwealth of Pennsylvania seek to live in harmony with natural resources and strive to discover a cleaner, less waste-filled environment for our children and grandchildren; and

"Whereas, conservationists across Pennsylvania work with commonwealth citizens to conserve natural resources; and

"Whereas, leadership for the conservation of natural resources on private land is provided through a partnership of conservation districts, state conservation agencies, and the USDA's (NRCS); and ...

"Whereas, the (NRSC) ... was created on April 27, 1935 ... it is celebrating 60 years of preserving the nation's soil and water resources on private lands; and

"Whereas, we will continue to raise awareness of the critical importance of our natural resources;

"Therefore, I, Tom Ridge, ... do hereby proclaim June 2, 1995 as Natural Resources Conservation Day to commemorate the creation of NRCS, and urge all citizens to recognize the importance of conservation in our communities."

Secretary Brosius addressed the crowd a second time, delivering the keynote address.

Brosius said he knew and admired Sam Williams and the Williams family. He said that Sam has served to many as "... a role model of integrity, honesty and perserverance."

He also spoke about Sam's son Tom continuing the commitment to making the farm a model of conservation, and how Tom's parents Sam and Carol passed on their love of the soil to their children.

The secretary talked about the progress of the conservation movement, the history and legacy of Pennsylvania in helping forge and lead in that movement, and of individuals such as Gov. Gifford Pinchot, a noted conservationist.

(Turn to Page A27)

Brosius also talked about his own experience.

"In 1946, my family purchased a farm that no one else wanted. I was 16," he said.

"I still remember the bitter cold day I helped the SCS man lay out the contours," he said, adding that if he had known how much work it was going to take, and if he wasn't as young, he might not have decided to go along with the plan.

He said he went along with the SCS conservation plan and by implementing all the contour strips, "... (the farm) was made beautiful. I still farm those same (contour) strips."

But Brosius also said that it must be remembered that conservation practices are done so that people can look at a beautiful piece of land laid out in contour strips.

"You don't do it for beauty. You don't do it for ease of farming ... You do it for the long-term benefit to the soil and environment."

In this way, Brosius said he was proud to recognize the efforts of the Williams' family as "symbolic of farmers around the state."

Brosius also emphasized the uniqueness of the NRCS program in that it was designed to have government represented on a one-to-one basis working with individuals for the benefit of all.

In that fashion it serves as a model for many of the policy reforms undertaken by the Ridge administration, and Republican leaders within the state and federal government with pledges to work with people to achieve goals, rather than focusing on punishing people who don't achieve those goals on their own.

Brosius also gave a political message in his talk. He said that, as the U.S. Congress debates the federal budget and is on a political bent to cut funds from the USDA (most of USDA funds go toward social welfare programs), "we fear cuts" to the NRCS.

"We at the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture are actively discouraging the reduction of funding to the NRCS," Brosius told the group.

Also speaking was Bernard Hoffnar, executive director of the Pa. Association of Conservation Districts, who said he was born and raised on a farm in southern Illinois that coincidentally had a small herd of Jersey cows.

Hoffnar talked about being partners working together and respecting each other to achieve individual business success and environmental success. "It's happening in Pennsylvania," he said.

He said that currently the conservation disctrict

Other speakers included Richard VanNoy, chief of the Division of Conservation Districts; George Wolff, agricultural/environmental lobbyist, who talked about what work still needs to be done; and Janet Oertly, state conservationist in charge of the Pennsylvania office of the NRCS.

Brad Hicks, a television newscaster, acted as master of ceremonies.

As a final tribute, participants in the event gathered around a birthday cake decorated in honor of the 60th anniversary of NRCS and sang "Happy Birthday."

with an introduction to agriculture and environmental science. If they choose, 10th graders learn more about plant science. In 11th grade, students can learn about either animal science or greenhouse managment. Through a vocational program in 12th grade, students can sign up to begin an ag-related career.

Many of the 80 students who sign up also become Bermudian FFA members and have a chance to experience how important agriculture is for many industries.

"FFA members visit area farms, prepare for contests, attend livestock expositions, judging contests, Farm Show, and many go on to the national convention in Kansas City," said Wardle. "We let them see how big ag is."

Like many schools, the ag science program also includes a small greenhouse from which different types of flowers and bedding plants are grown. In addition, Wardle operates his own landscaping company from which students can obtain practical experience.

Three years ago, with the help of other instructors at the school, Wardle was able to assemble several environmental awareness areas. The areas, encompassing about 20 acres near the school, provide some aspects of agriculture, all within "five minutes of the classroom," said Wardle.

Those areas include forestry, wetlands, farmer fields, grasslands, a streambed, and other areas.

In the past month, Wardle and other instructors provided lessons to 20 teachers from the district elementary, middle, and high schools about the environmental areas. Two sessions examined how to apply the information for specialized instruction from kindergarten through 12th grade.

The past week, Wardle noticed several student groups touring through the wetlands area. "I see lots and lots of kids out there at every grade level and experience," he said.

The program will try to expose as "many kids as we can," Wardle said, to learning about agriculture and the environment.

Wardle has been accepted to attend the 1995 National Institute on Cooperative Education (NICE) to be held in July in Minneapolis, Minn. A native of Cumberland County, Wardle is a 1982 graduage of Big Springs High School. He majored in agricultural education and minored in extension education at Penn State, from which he was graduated in 1986. In the fall of 1986, Wardle began teaching at Bermudian Springs.

The next Ag Horizons Conference will be held Aug. 8 at the Inn At Reading. Educators who need more information can call Carol (Mercner) Duncan at (610) 693-5601.

Bermudian Springs students inspect the environmental wetlands study area on campus.

everything is going as planned."

The total committee of four includes Lori's mother-in-law, Mary Ann Snider who chaired the entertainment; Lilly Nichll, Lori's co-chairman from State College; Pat Landis of Lancaster County who was responsible for the favors; and Marj Harpster of Spruce Creek, in charge of hostesses.

"We had a wonderful time with the planning and scheduling," Lori says. "We met with the travel and convention center at Pittsburgh, and were treated royally to the sights, sounds, and tastes of Pittsburgh, which really is a wonderful city."

Highlight of the week is a luncheon to be held at the Westin William Penn Hotel, a grand old luxury hotel that reflects Lori's taste. Her own family resides in a Victorian style farmhouse complete with gingerbread trim.

In honor of Pittsburgh's ethnic melting pot background, the luncheon will include a group of musicians playing tamburitzas, and stringed musical instruments that evolved from the ancient lute."

An Amish theme will run throughout the luncheon with tables covered with Amish quilts and pillow shams as centerpieces. Amish porcelain pins designed in the style of various quilt patches will be presented to each guest and the menu will include various types of Amish food.

"It's an expensive event," Lori admits. "And, if we charged to cover our costs, not many would be able to afford to come. We are very grateful to H.J. Heinz for footing a lot of the bill for all of our events."

The luncheon is scheduled for Tuesday and, on Wednesday, the women will tour an Amish settlement near Ohio. Another group will tour the Frick mansion and museum in Pittsburgh.

"I knew what those attending would be expecting," Lori says. "Because I haven't missed one since I was married. Attending the National Holstein Convention has always been a Snider family tradition.

"We've been all over the United States and enjoyed every one. Pre-convention tours have given us the opportunity to see such sights as Yellowstone or Mt. Rushmore."

The Sniders' three older children, Ross, 16; Greta, 13; and Nora, 11 have also enjoyed each convention as they got old enough to do so.

"Ross was only nine months old when we took him to Nashville in a cattle truck loaded with one of our cows," remembers Lori. "It was hot and not too comfortable. The baby flew home with his grandmother," she recalls fondly.

This year the three older children will attend the luncheon and sale but Lori's hectic position at the convention prohibits them from attending other events.

And, since they are involved in softball, they were happy to stay with aunts who live nearby.

Well acquainted with the world of Holsteins, the Sniders of Singing Brook have a herd of 150 and more than 500 acres of farm land.

Official Holstein Pedigrees: Essential Merchandising Tool

BRATTLEBORO, Vt. — Pedigrees are a good management tool, according to Holstein producers, but they are also a near-necessity when it comes to merchandising. Across the country, producers are using Official Holstein Pedigrees to make breeding decisions, look up ancestry, and enhance sales of Officially Identified Holstein cattle.

Gary Wilson of Greenbush, Minnesota, said he uses pedigrees in a variety of ways in his herd. Ordering the pedigrees, when he ideintifies his calves allows him to get a headstart on production information later on. Those same pedigrees give more credibility to his merchandising as well.

"The pedigree is of utmost importance," he said. "I rely on the Holstein pedigree for all the official information, buying or selling. It's something I have to have - ti's a given."

Official Holstein Pedigrees can be ordered with three generations, four generations, or five generations of ancestry. Pedigrees are ordered for making breeding decisions, merchandising information, or for use in sale catalogs.

Wilson said he sells quite a few females, and all bulls are sold as breeding stock. "It gives more credibility to the sale. It's a source of information we use all the time," he said. "It's almost essential to have a pedigree for our clientele and our export buyers."

For example, he recently sent 11 pedigrees out of state to a potential buyer. Those pedigrees, along with pictures, will likely be all that the buyer will need to see to make his decision, Wilson said. "Based on the pedigrees and photos, I can probably complete the sale over the phone."

Wilson has the pedigrees updated after each herd classification and genetic update, to make the most current information available. He also frequently gets updated pedigrees on animals in the top end of the herd and his high-impact cows.

He noted that pedigrees lend a certain professionalism to merchandising. "If I'm standing out in a cow lot with all the pedigrees in a book where I can look up the information right there, it adds credibility to the sale. That way I'm not saying 'I don't know about that cow' or 'I'll have to go check on that.'"

Wilson said a pedigree is "a given" when it comes to buying or selling cows. "I won't buy or sell an animal without a pedigree," he stressed. "I request one when I'm buying cattle and my selling is based on pedigrees. You can see the production information, the depth of the cow family and the classification score. It's a good management tool, plain and simple."

When selling his breeding bulls to the bull studs, he provides the most up-to-date pedigrees as well. "That way they have a workable

Maryland and Virginia's Program is held in conjunction with a similar program sponsored by Atlantic Dairy Cooperative, Southampton, Pennsylvania under the umbrella organization of the Pennmarva Dairymen's Federation. The Association's program is open to anyone affiliated with any of its member farms between the ages of 21 and 35.

Each applicant in the Association's program is asked to fill out a four-page application which details personal data about the applicant's farming information about their individual dairy operation and an essay on "Cooperative Marketing of Milk."

At the program each applicant is interviewed by the Association's panel of judges for a period of 13 minutes and is then given an opportunity to answer one question, after a Roundtable Discussion, pertaining to current dairy issues before staff, directors, judges and other guests of the Association. Each applicant is then scored based on information given in the application, the interview, and the applicant's response during the question and answer session for a possible 100 points. The degree of progress in the applicant's career through individual initiative and resourcefulness is given 40 points; their cooperative knowledge, understanding and belief is given 20 points, the informal interview period with the judges is given 15 points; the formal Question and Answer Session before judges and guests is given 15 points; and the significance of contributions made to the well being of the community as in individual through leadership in various organizations is given 10 points.

A total of four couples was selected to represent the Association at various local and national programs in the coming year, they are as follows:

Melvin G. and Barbara L. Marks - Outstanding Young Cooperator 1995-96; John M. and Susan W. Myers - First Runner Up; John Burket - Second Runner Up; and Dale N. and Diane R. Lehman - Third Runner Up.

The Markses will represent Maryland and Virginia at the National Institute on Cooperative Education (NICE) Conference to be held in Minneapolis, Minnesota, July 31 thru August 3, and attend the National Milk Producers Federation (NMPF) Annual Meeting in Nashville, Tennessee, November 27-30. At the NMPF Meeting the Markses will be attending the Young Cooperator portion of the program and have an opportunity to be selected to serve on its Young Cooperator Advisory Committee. They will also be given an opportunity to attend the Association's Board of Directors meetings for the next 12 months, and be members of its Young Cooperator Committee.

The Myers' and John Burket will also have an opportunity to attend the NICE Conference in Minneapolis, Minnesota and will attend the May Young Cooperator Committee Meeting at our Reston Office to help critique the Association's Young Cooperator Program. The Lehmans will serve as an alternate in case one of the other couples cannot fulfill its obligations.

The judges for this year's program were Hershel Gardner, a dairy farmer from Mt. Solon, Virginia; Jan Stanton, Executive Director, Dairy Council, Inc. in Southampton, Pennsylvania; John Thompson, a retired vocational agriculture and industrial teacher and a school administrator from Frederick, Maryland.

Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers is a Cooperative with a membership of approximately 1,200 farms in the states of Delaware, Maryland, Pennsylvania, Virginia and West Virginia marketing approximately two billion pounds of milk per year.

Profiles of the winners are as follows:

Melvin G. and Barbara L. Marks

Melvin and Barbara live in Airville, Pennsylvania with their three children, Erin age 11, Nicole age 9, and Trisha age 7. The Markses are the owners and operators of their dairy operation. Their farm consists of 80 acres of which 50 are in alfalfa and 30 in improved pasture. Their milking herd consists of 53 registered Holstein cows, 35 heifers, and 21 calves. Their DHIA rolling herd average is 17,069 pounds of milk, 634 pounds of fat, and 566 pounds of protein.

When asked what their future goals for their dairy operation would be the Markses replied, "We would like to continue to use and improve our rotational grazing, while maintaining milk production, and use the least purchased feed as possible."

When asked about their ideas on "Cooperative Marketing of Milk," the Markses replied, "We believe that marketing milk through a cooperative is truly the most practical way to distribute milk. We know that our cooperative is run by farmers, for farmers, which means that the cooperative will always be looking out for our best interest."

The Markses are members of Sire Power, Atlantic Breeders Cooperative, Pennsylvania Farm Bureau, Pennsylvania and National Forage and Grassland Council, York County Holstein Club, Pennsylvania and National Holstein Association, and the York County DHIA. They are active in many 4-H and FFA activities. Melvin and Barbara belong to Chanceford Presbyterian Church and Sunday School, where they are both Sunday School teachers.

John M. and Susan W. Myers

John and Susan live in Union Bridge, Maryland with their two children Jenna age 5 and Nikki almost 4 years old. They are share owners with John's father and farm 350 acres of which 105 acres are in corn, 65 acres are in soybeans, 40 acres are in alfalfa, 18 acres in barley, 15 acres in timothy and the remaining is pasture. They have Holstein cows of which 80 percent are registered and they have a rolling herd average of 21,035 pounds of milk, 767 pounds of fat and 654 pounds of protein.

When asked what their future goals for their dairy operation would be the Myerses replied, "Survival is the first, foremost and most realistic goal. Our dream is to build another loafing barn for cows, a heifer barn and a parlor over the six to eight years. This would double our herd and make us more labor efficient."

When asked about their ideas on "Cooperative Marketing of Milk" Myers replied, "We all play equally important roles in the success of our association. We, as producers, have the responsibility of shipping the highest quality milk possible. The field reps. and quality control people assist us to do so. Traffic control makes sure the milk gets hauled where needed and the processing plants efficiently process it for the consumer. Our board of directors, management staff and office personnel make decisions and handle the business of the cooperative. GATT and NAFTA will slowly change and expand our business into the global market. We think the combination of our new general manager, Mr. Walgrove, diplomacy skills and the sound business sense of our Board puts MD-VA in an excellent position to aggressively meet the future."

The Myerses are involved in the Southern States Cooperative, Progressive Farms Clubs, DHIA, Farm Bureau, Farm Bureau of Women and the Carroll County Holstein Club. Their family attends the Lindwood Brethren Church.

John S. Burket

John lives in East Freedom, Pennsylvania where he is involved in the family dairy operation. John's primary responsibility is herdsman, however he works in all areas of their dairy. Their farm consists of 300 acres of which 115 are in corn, 120 are in alfalfa and 65 are in other crops. The dairy herd consists of Holstein of which 105 are milking cows, 110 heifers and 30 calves. They average 21,368 pounds of milk, 844 pounds of fat and 693 pounds of protein.

When asked about his future goals, John responded that his personal goal is to contribute to breeding and develop outstanding polled Holsteins.

When asked about the "Cooperative Marketing of Milk" John replied, "I believe the Co-ops can take an aggressive role in marketing, quality control, legislation and control the supply-demand scenario in order for us to receive the best price for our product."

John is a member of the Blair Co. Holstein Club, Pennsylvania Holstein Association, Holstein Association of America, Penn State Dairy Science Club, Penn State Dairy Judging Team, Youth Representative to Blair County Extension Service, Board Member Claysburg-Kimmel School District, Board Member Red and White Dairy Cattle Association, Morrisons Cove 4-H Dairy Club, Portage Blue Lodge No. 220, F. & A.M., Jaffa Temple of Altoona and attends the Grace United Church of Christ. John holds offices with many of these organizations.

Dale N. and Diane R. Lehman

Dale and Diane live in Chambersburg, Pennsylvania with their two children, Kendra age 5 and Spencer age 4. They were both raised in dairying and chose farming after they married. Their farm consists of 150 acres of which 30 are in corn, 25 in alfalfa and 95 in other crops. Their herd of Holstein cows are divided by 52 milking cows, 38 heifers and 3 calves. Their DHIA rolling herd averages 19,061 pounds of milk, 709 pounds of fat and 615 pounds of protein.

When asked what their future goals for their dairy operation would be, the Lehmans replied, "Producing 1,000,000 pounds of milk per man, continue to breed our cows for longevity, to obtain the premium bonus each month, maintain a good monthly herd check, increase herd numbers to 75-100 over next three years and see that forages are harvested at their highest quality."

When asked about their ideas on "Cooperative Marketing of Milk," the Lehmans replied, "We should work hand in hand. Producers should work on producing a top quality product and the Cooperative should be processing and marketing for the top price possible and seek the best possible markets. As consumption increases we need to continue from a healthy standpoint. We still produce nature's perfect product."

The Lehmans are members of Young Farmer Chambersburg Charter, Franklin County Holstein Board, Franklin County Junior Holstein Club Advisor, PFB Advisor Council, Franklin County Society of Farm Women and Menno Haven Auxiliary. They have held various offices in these organizations. They attend Cedar Street Mennonite Church were Dale teaches Sunday School.

Pa. Farm Link To Hold Workshop

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — Hoping to reverse the decline in family farming in Pennsylvania and in turn contribute to the revitalization of our rural communities, the Pennsylvania Farm Link program is sponsoring a Beginning and Retiring Farmer Workshop at the Berks County Ag Center on Thursday, June 29.

The regional workshop, from 9 a.m. - 3 p.m., will address farm transfer issues, business planning, farm loan resources, marketing ideas, startup strategies, goal setting, communication skills, and alternative agriculture.

According to Farm Link Coordinator Marian Bowlan, in spite of the decline in family farms in Pennsylvania and the obstacles that deter all but the most devoted, many Pennsylvanians are looking for ways to get into farming.

Participating agencies and individuals include Pennsylvania Farm Link, Penn State Cooperative Extension, Keystone Farm Credit, Berks County Rural Economic and Community Development Service (formerly Farmers Home Administration), and a panel of local farmers. The Ag Center is located on County Road, just off Route 83, north of the Reading Airport.

There is no cost to attend; however, pre-registration is necessary. Please call the Farm Link program at (800) 9PA-FARM by Monday, June 26, to make your reservations.

Pennsylvania Farm Link is a component of the Center for Rural Pennsylvania, a research and policy development agency of the Pennsylvania General Assembly.

Cattle Field Day To Examine Use Of By-Products As Feed Source

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

MAYTOWN (Lancaster Co.) — Commercial feedlot owners, cattle breeders, cow/calf operators, and others are invited to attend the annual Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association (PCA) Field Day and Tour on Saturday, June 17 to begin here at the Lloyd F. Furman Memorial Park.

In the past, the focus of the annual field day, which includes tours of several farms, has centered on the challenges faced by breeders and cow/calf operators. For this year's event the focus has shifted to not only the brood cow operators, but those who feed to finish.

The event in June will examine how commercial feedlots use food waste products as the cattles' primary food source.

"Over the years, the focus has always been on the cow/calf operations, mostly because the purebred operations were more likely to host something like this at their farm rather than a commercial producer or feedlot producer," said Chet Hughes, Lancaster County livestock agent.

Hughes, who chairs the educational events of the field day, said that the PCA has recognized that the beef feeding industry is a vital part of the overall cattle industry in the state. Lancaster County has a lot of feedlot producers. Importantly, those same producers are near some major food processing plants that can supply the processing by-products used to feed beef cattle.

The focus of the event will be on the comercial aspects of the industry and the activities in the southeastern part of the state, said Bill McCoy, president of Lancaster Stockyards and chairman of the event. The event will accommodate up to 600 people.

The PCA wants to involve the input of the feedlot producers more in the coming years. McCoy said the emphasis will be on how producers can use the waste products to make up for the high cost of feedstuff. In the southeast portion of the state, a "deficit corn area," said McCoy, producers have relatively easy access to the by-products from bakeries, chip makers, and other processors.

"Lots of waste can be fed to the cattle," said Chet Hughes, and this represents a unique and viable marketing opportunity for producers.

Several farms comprise the tour. Two of the farms, the Barley Farm in Conestoga and the Nissley Bros. Farm in Mount Joy, use food by-products. Barley's Star Rock Farm, which finishes about 1,800 head of cattle per year, uses noodle waste provided by a local food processor. The Nissley Farm, which finishes about 300 head of cattle per year, utilizes potato chip by-products provided by a local chip manufacturer.

Another farm tour will be conducted of the Dwight Hess Farm, Mount Joy, which finishes about 300 head of cattle per year.

The program begins at 8:30 a.m. at the Lloyd F. Furman Memorial Park in Maytown, in the western part of the county. There, buses will board on a staggered schedule to three different destinations. At noon, the buses will return and lunch will be served by the PCA's Keystone Ribeye Sandwich crew. After lunch, Charles Brosius, Pennsylvania secretary of agriculture, will address the group. The afternoon schedule will include a repeat of the sessions from the morning.

Scheduled to speak at the field day are the following:

- Harold Harpster, Penn State research on feeding food processing by-products.
- John Comerford, Penn State beef specialist, on how to interpret good feed efficieny in cattle.
- John Burt, Lancaster County conservation district technician, on controlling soil erosion and feedlot runoff.
- An ag engineer to discuss new facilities.

In using food by-products — material which provides an excellent source of energy and nutrients for cattle — shows a lot of promise, according to recent Penn State research. Hughes said that Penn State has analyzed all sorts of materials for feed quality, including cardboard, newspapers, candy, snacks, "a lot of stuff. Producers realize the potential here in Pennsylvania.

"The stumbling block has always been the handling and the timing of getting these things in the proper amount and working with the source.

"The biggest handling challenge is to ensure enough of the by-product is available from the producer at the right time. That's difficult to achieve," said Hughes.

Another important aspect of the field day is how farmers can make use of the program information to become better stewards of the land, according to McCoy.

Also scheduled is a tour of the Cameron Estates and Donegal Plantation for the spouses. There will be a lot of activities for children at the park.

For more information, contact Chet Hughes at the Lancaster County Cooperative Extension, (717) 394-6851.

Official Holstein Pedigrees:

tool for merchandising decisions later on. When they come back to buy another bull, they'll look back at those pedigrees.

"Everyone should have a pedigree to work with on their own herd," he said. "It's a valuable, usable tool for managing." He added he uses the pedigrees when making breeding decisions as well.

Pedigrees can be ordered at the time the animal is identified with the Holstein Association, at a discount rate. They can also be ordered at any time during the animal's lifetime. Updated classification and DHIR information is added periodically.

Teresa Kissling, or Robesonia, Pennsylvania, said she also uses pedigrees in their marketing activities. She updates the pedigrees regularly, such as after classification and when the Sire Summaries are published. She also updates pedigrees on high-profile cows for their ET program.

"We actively sell cattle year round, and offer a wide range of cattle to our buyers," she said. "It's definitely necessary to have new pedigrees on hand with updated information. You just can't sell cows with an old pedigree."

The Kisslings merchandise about 60 head of cattle annually, including both open and bred heifers, mature cows, and bulls. Their milking herd is currently at 65 cows.

Kissling said she also used the pedigrees for a sale they had last November. "We normally order the three-generation pedigree, but we needed some extended pedigrees for the sale," she said. "Some of those pedigrees have Very Good or Excellent dams several generations back."

The buyers appreciate the pedigrees, she added. "Basically, if they're buying good quality animals, they do want a pedigree and do appreciate having it there. The bull studs are definitely happy to have a pedigree."

Harlan and Judith Borman in Kingdom City, Missouri, agree that pedigrees are important to have when merchandising. The farm milks about 130 head, with 150 replacement heifers.

A spokesman for the farm noted that for potential buyers who visit the farm, or for sale consignments, the pedigree information is good to have on hand. "The computer records on our farm can only do so much," she said. "The type information on the three-generation official pedigrees is valuable to have."

She noted the ancestry information is also valuable to have on the official pedigrees. While she normally only orders the three-generation pedigrees, she was able to use the longer pedigrees to trace one cow family back several decades. "We normally only get the basic pedigrees, but that time we were able to go all the way back to the 1940s with that animal," she said.

Madill Joins Dairylea Management

SYRACUSE, NY—Gene Madill has joined Dairylea Cooperative Inc. as chief operating officer announced Rick Smith, Dairylea chief executive officer. This new position has been created to better manage the day-to-day operations of the Cooperative, and enhance the coordination between important business segments—specifically the Milk Sales and Membership areas, explained Smith.

Prior to joining Dairylea, Madill served as chief executive officer and general manager of Penn Quality Meats of Bloomville, N.Y., a processing and marketing organization owned by a veal growers cooperative. In this position, Madill implemented a total restructuring of the organization's member equity program, began a strategic planning process, and decreased operating costs, while building a stable administrative foundation.

Previously, Madill was general manager of Highland Packaging Labs, Inc. Prior to that, he served in a variety of senior management positions with Johanna Dairies Incorporated and Tuscan Dairy Farms, Inc. for more than seven years. Earlier in his career, Madill held management positions with Eastern Air Lines in the financial and food service divisions.

"Gene Madill's knowledge and management experience will be of substantial value to Dairylea in overseeing and coordinating the dairy activities of our business," said Smith. "With the hectic pace of change that our industry continues to experience, we are fortunate to have Gene's strong, hands-on approach to management which will add a new dimension and bring a more solid cohesion to our vital business segments.

"His diverse insight will also have a significant, positive impact on the interfacing of our primary business with our insurance, financial services and livestock marketing subsidiaries," said Smith.

Madill, who received a bachelor's degree in accounting from the University of South Florida, has served on various committees of industry and community organizations such as the New Jersey Milk Industry Association, the International Dairy Foods Association, and Bassett Healthcare.

Dairylea is a Syracuse-based dairy cooperative with more than 2,300 member farms throughout the Northeast. It markets a total of 3.5 billion pounds of milk annually and participates and is invested in a milk marketing network stretching from Maine to Maryland to Ohio.

Naczi Elected Leader Of Member Managers

SYRACUSE, NY—Richard Naczi, executive vice president of the American Dairy Association and Dairy Council, Inc. (ADADC) was recently elected chairperson of the Member Managers Group for Dairy Management, Inc. (DMI). One of the eighteen regional managers, Naczi will head the group that is responsible for providing regionalized input into the national dairy promotion plan.

Naczi said, "The member managers provide a 'reality check' to the national programs. We are closest to regional trends, demographics and dairy farmer perspectives in the marketplace." The group also develops new ideas and more efficient ways to deliver the most cost-effective programs that yield the highest returns to dairy farmers.

In addition to providing input to DMI, the Members Manager Group conducts forums to discuss common program, staff and structural concerns on the local level. According to Naczi, "This network of member managers provides each of us with new ideas for strengthening our own organizations."

Naczi added, "As the National Dairy Board and United Dairy Industry Association continue to transition into one effective staff, budget and program plan, we will face many challenges. Together with the other regional managers, we hope to make a difference."

Prior to joining ADADC five years ago, Naczi was employed by Milk Promotion Services, Inc., in Montpelier, Vermont, for ten years.

The American Dairy Association and Dairy Council, Inc. is a dairy promotion organization which represents dairy producers from New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Pasture Quality: How Good Is It?

Lisa A. Holden and Lawrence D. Muller
Penn State University

With the increased use of pasture as a major source of nutrients, frequent questions arise about the nutrient composition of pastures. Traditionally, high quality forages have been a key to high milk production in dairy and high rates of gain for beef and sheep operations. High quality forages are also an important part of overall farm profitability. This is true whether we are talking about forages harvested as hay, silage, or pasture. More data is available about the nutrient composition, particularly protein and fiber of stored forages compared to pasture. Very high quality pastures have been reported from forage testing, with protein values occasionally exceeding 30% and ADF about 20%. Thus the question: Pasture Quality—how good is it?

Nutritional quality of pasture like harvested forages is related to the maturity of the forage when harvested. For dairy forages, producers strive to achieve a legume forage with about 20-23% crude protein (CP), 26-30% acid detergent fiber (ADF), 38-42% neutral detergent fiber (NDF), and an NEL of .62-68 Mcal/lb. Grasses harvested as hay or silage would likely be 15-18% CP, 30-35% ADF, and 46-52% NDF with NEL of .58-.62 Mcal/lb. Typically, the ADF content is more closely associated with energy and often is used to calculate NEL content while NDF is associated with intake and rumen health. Smaller data bases for pasture compared with stored forages can mean less accurate values, particularly with energy values.

With good grazing management, grasses harvested by cows will be in vegetative state about 6 to 8 inches tall, depending on the type of grass. Grasses harvested as hay or silage are more mature than when harvested as pasture, thus pasture should be of higher quality than stored forages. Legumes such as clover or alfala are usually grazed at an earlier stage of growth than when harvested as stored forage. Therefore, with excellent grazing management we should expect to have higher quality forage when harvested as pasture than when harvested as stored forage.

The quality of pasture will vary depending on many factors including location in the state, temperature, moisture, type of grass and/or legume, and of course grazing management. In Table I are average nutrient composition values for several types and mixtures of high quality pastures. These are average values and should be used as a guide for providing additional nutrients. Forage testing and monitoring of composition are needed to more closely monitor the supplemental feeding program. The seasonal effect in nutrient composition is illustrated with columns title spring, summer, and fall. For most grasses and grass/legume mixtures, the protein and energy content are higher in the spring and fall and lower during the summer. The nutrient composition of an orchardgrass based pasture during a grazing season from a Penn State study is shown in Figure 1. These results are from well managed pastures that were grazed at a stocking rate of 1.3 cows per acre and had nine grazing rotations. Quality remained high with this well managed pasture where grass was grazed in the vegetative state and should be representative of intensively managed pastures. Crude protein remained above 20% for the entire grazing season. Fiber increased and in vitro dry matter digestibility (IVDMD) decreased during the summer. These results suggest the analysis of pastures perhaps three times per year to coincide with changing seasons may be adequate when pasture availability is not limiting. Keep in mind that forage tests are always subject to errors and good judgement is necessary when interpreting results and developing feeding strategies.

In general, pastures containing some legumes are higher in nutrient value and will likely be consumed in higher amounts than straight grass pastures. The type of grass and the inclusion of legumes will influence the pasture composition. Data from some of our recent studies show that ryegrass is about 4% lower in NDF% than orchardgrass and about 5% higher in IVDMD. Inclusion of alfagraze with either ryegrass or orchardgrass decreased the NDF about 7% with a 4% higher IVDMD compared to just grass pastures.

Although the total protein in well managed pastures is high, the protein is high in ruminally degraded intake protein (DIP). Often, 70 to 80% of the protein in pasture will be degraded in the rumen whereas the recommended requirement for DIP in the total dairy ration is between 62 and 68% of the total protein. Providing ruminally available carbohydrates, primarily from concentrates but also from other forages, will help animals utilize the high levels of ruminally degraded protein in pastures more effectively. If non structural carbohydrates or energy are lacking in the diet and rumen, the high ruminal DIP in pasture will result in high levels of rumen ammonia which is converted to urea. This urea then appears in blood and milk, with much of it eventually in the urine, Thus, the high DIP in pastures is often wasted by the cow. High levels of urea in blood have been linked to lower reproductive efficiencies and excretion of urea requires energy for the animal to excrete.

Well managed pastures regardless of the plant species can be high in nutrient quality and often exceed the nutrient composition of high quality stored forages. Good grazing management is essential to maintaining pasture quality. Changes in season trigger changes in rate of plant growth and subsequent changes in nutrient composition. The continual changing of pasture quantity and quality during the grazing season provides challenges to producers using a grazing system. Use of available information about forage quality and nutrition can lead to sound grazing and feeding management decisions.

New Holland Results Signal Growth

LONDON — Agricultural and industrial equipment giant New Holland today reported a 1994 net income of $355.7 million as the company rebounded from a $56 million net loss in 1993. Net sales for the year rose to $4.72 billion, compared to $3.63 billion in 1993.

New Holland posted higher shares in nearly all markets during 1994, prompting Chief Executive Officer Riccardo Ruggeri to declare the year "a dramatic and outstanding success around the world. The surge in industry sales throughout much of the world, larger New Holland shares in nearly all markets, and the company's restructuring actions during the preceding three years were all important to our success in 1994," said Ruggeri.

"Our continuing drive to reduce costs and improve our margins paid off," said Chief Financial Officer Renato Iodice, noting that the company's gross profit rose to $1.16 billion, 44 percent higher than the $803 million seen in 1993. By holding general, selling, and administrative expenses in check while cutting other costs and operating expenses in half, the company was able to increase its operating income to $484.8 million, compared to $59 million in 1993, he said.

Iodice also reported that New Holland's income before taxes and minority interests was $401.4 million in 1994, after accounting for financing and investment expenses. He said the favorable cash flow in 1994 helped reduce third-party borrowing from $186.5 million to $125.9 million.

According to Ruggeri, "Demand was strong in most of the markets where we did business in 1994. We benefited from the rebound in Europe and North America and increased our tractor share in both markets. Revenue from the North American market was nearly $1.8 billion, up over 30 percent compared to 1993. In Europe, revenues were also about $1.8 billion, an increase of 18 percent over last year.

"In Brazil, we had a remarkable year, with tractor sales up 134 percent over 1993. Across Africa, the Middle East, and the Pacific Rim our sales were strong, and our tractor share in this region increased by over 16 percent in total. Revenues from these growing markets outside Europe and North America totalled over $1.1 billion - 25 percent of our total revenue in 1994 and an increase of 5 percent compared to 1993."

Last year also brought stronger construction equipment industry sales in European markets served by Fiat-Hitachi, the New Holland Group's joint venture which produces hydraulic excavators and other earthmoving equipment for sale in Europe, Africa and the Middle East. Fiat-Hitachi also increased substantially its presence in the Middle East, and made slight gains in Africa.

In North America, sales of both tractor loader backhoes (TLBs) and skid-steer loaders were up over 1993, with share gains in TLBs. However, Ruggeri said New Holland's share of the North American skid-steer loader market suffered due to limited availability of the company's all-new line, a situation that will be remedied when expansion of the company's production facility in Belleville, Pennsylvania is completed this year.

Ruggeri cautioned that industry-wide sales for 1995 are not expected to be quite as strong as in 1994. However, he expects further increases in New Holland's market share as a direct result of the company's new product introductions.

Sunset Composting Meeting Set

NUMIDIA (Columbia Co.) — A sunset compost meeting will be held at 6:30 p.m. on Tuesday, June 20, here at the farm of Dennis LeVan.

Sunset meeting activities will include:

* Update on compost utilization research by Dr. Doug Beegle, Penn State Extension.

* View corn growing in plots with manure, composted manure, and synthetic fertilizer.

* Overview of Microbial Composting: Composting of Manure to Alleviate Nitrogen Leaching Problem by Dr. Judy Kipe-Nolt, Bloomsburg University.

* Demonstration of rinse system on sprayer built by Dennis LeVan.

The sunset compost meeting is an opportunity to see corn being grown in plots that received different rates of raw dairy manure, composted dairy manure, and synthetic fertilizer.

This is the second year of research on Dennis LeVan's farm that focuses on the utilization of composted manure. One of the primary questions being investigated is the availability of nitrogen and phosphorous from composted manure. This research will be useful for developing nutrient management plans for farmers using composted manure.

During the first year of research, corn was grown in plots to which different rates of raw dairy manure, composted dairy manure, and synthetic fertilizer were applied. During the second year, corn in the manure and compost plots is being grown without any additional nutrients to assess the residual nutrients from these amendments.

The results from the trial at the LeVan Farm and other sites where this research is being conducted will be discussed by Beegle from Penn State. Dr. Judy Kipe-Nolt will discuss the work she is doing with the Pocono Northeast Resource Conservation and Development Area on the microbial composting process for conserving nutrients.

The compost meeting is sponsored by Penn State Extension, Rodale Institute, and Columbia County Conservation District. For additional information, contact the Conservation District at (717) 784-1310 or the Rodale Institute at (610) 683-1421.

Commodity Groups Urge Committee To Consider Ag's Contributions

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The American Soybean Association has joined with other major commodity groups presenting a letter to the Senate Budget Committee urging them to keep in mind the sacrifices agriculture has already made to balance past federal budgets.

ASA chairman, and farmer from South Dakota, Larry Diedrich said, "What people need to know is that a strong U.S. agriculture industry also puts millions of dollars back into the economy as a result of all the jobs it creates, both farm-related and otherwise."

With nearly one out of six American jobs — a total of 21 million — attributable to agriculture, it is keenly important that the U.S. maintain a healthy agricultural industry.

The letter acknowledges the importance of reducing the federal deficit, but asks that agriculture not be singled out for a disproportionate cut. In support of their position, the letter from the commodity groups states, "Agriculture has a history of contributing more toward reducing the federal deficit than other federal programs. Over the past 10 years, farm program spending has been reduced from $25.8 billion to $8.5 billion, a two-thirds reduction, while total federal spending rose by 50 percent. All this, despite the fact that agriculture only accounts for 1 percent of the total federal spending. If all other federal programs had taken the same level of cuts during that time, the U.S. would now be basking in a substantial budget surplus."

Early hopes were that the most recent round of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade would resolve trade disputes among the world's nations. GATT made progress, but it did not eliminate all of the problems. The European Union still maintains a 3 to 1 advantage over the U.S. in terms of its domestic support for agriculture, and a 6 to 1 advantage in export subsidies.

The U.S. has already reduced its support for domestic farm programs by more than the 20 percent required by the Uruguay Round GATT agreement. Further cuts would result in the U.S. unilaterally eliminating farm program protections. It would place our farmers at a gross disadvantage to their overseas counterparts.

Sen. Jubelirer Appoints Altoona Man To Farmland Board

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Ray Diebold, an Altoona dairy farmer, was appointed last week to the Pennsylvania Agricultural Land Preservation Board by Sen. Robert Jubelirer, who is also Senate president pro tempore.

The 17-member board has oversight of the state Farmland Protection Program, which allows the state and counties to purchase development rights — referred to as easements — to guarantee that certain farms remain as agricultural land.

The board is constructed so that the secretary of the Agriculture Department is chairman.

Other members include the secretaries of the departments of Community Affairs and Environmental Resources; the minority and majority leaders of the House and Senate Agricultural and Rural Affairs committees; the dean of The Pennsylvania State University College of Agricultural Sciences; five members appointed by the governor; and four members appointed, one each by the speaker of the House, the House minority leader, the Senate president pro tempore, and the Senate minority leader.

Diebold was appointed by Jubelirer to fill an unexpired term on the board. Normally, members serve for four years. Diebold's board term is to end in April 1997.

The appointment is one of several leadership positions that Diebold currently holds. He is a member of Sen. Jubelirer's agricultural advisory group, the Penn State Agricultural Advisory Council, and the Pennsylvania Council of Agricultural Organizations.

Also, last year, Diebold was reappointed to serve as a member of the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program Board of Directors.

Diebold operates a 90-cow dairy farm in Tyrone Township, with his wife Juyd and son Kevin. He and Judy also have a son Ken, and daughter Karen.

As a member of the Farmland Protection Program Board of Directors, Diebold is to review requests to approve programs and purchases of building easements on farmland.

Under the program, individual landowners who have first enrolled their acres within an approved Agricultural Security Area can then apply to a county preservation board to sell the development rights to the farmland.

County boards (there are 37 currently in the state) can request state funding to help pay for the easements, or purchase the easements entirely.

State Secretary of Agriculture Charles Brosius praised the selection.

"Mr. Diebold has operated a dairy farm in Blair County and has been a leader in agricultural issues for many year," Brosius said. "We will value his input as a board member."

Fungicides Released To Fight Late Blight

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.)—Agriculture Secretary Charles C. Brosius announced that two fungicides are now available for commercial growers to control late blight in potatoes.

Acrobat MZ and Curzate M-8 were unavailable for use on potatoes until Brosius formally requested that they be exempted from federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) regulations this growing season.

"We're pleased that the EPA has approved our request to use these fungicides on late blight," Brosius said. "It's another tool for farmers as they combat this disease."

Acrobat MZ is manufactured by E.I. du Pont de Nemours, and Curzate M-8 is manufactured by the American Cyanamid Company. Both fungicides will be available from commercial suppliers until October 1, when the exemption expires.

Brosius requested the exemptions due to an emergency condition resulting from the introduction of a new strain of late blight fungus (Phytophthora infestans). There was over $4 million in damage to Pennsylvania potato crops due to late blight during 1994.

Plants affected by late blight have brownish to purplish-black spots appearing on leaves or stems of plants. The disease can occur at any time during the growing season when humid, rainy conditions occur.

In addition to requesting exemption for the two fungicides, the Agriculture Department increased its monitoring activity to alert growers to the presence of late blight and blight conditions.

Growers may contact an integrated pest management hotline for information on the occurrence and management of late blight. The telephone number is (800) 736-6476 (800-PENN-IPM).

The department's Plant Disease Diagnostic Laboratory is also assisting in the late blight management effort by testing samples using a new technique that provides faster determination of late blight fungus to aid growers in fighting the disease.

For more information on the control of late blight, growers may contact their professional associations, county extensions agents, or the Agriculture Department's Plant Industry Labs at (717) 787-5609.

Worker Protection Rules

EVERETT NEWS-WANGER
Managing Editor

LEOLA (Lancaster Co.) — The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) worker protection law that went into effect in January of this year includes almost anyone who uses pesticides on his farm. Bob Anderson, Lancaster County agent, reviewed the ground rules of the law at the monthly Ag Forum Thursday morning.

Farm workers who are within one-fourth mile during a 30-day period after the pesticide has been applied to the crop are impacted. And a person who mixes pesticides is impacted even more and must wear safety equipment according to the label. Such things as rubber gloves, long sleeves, respirators, self- contained breathing apparatus, and eye protection are items you will need to provide. Anything on the label can be enforced. It's a national law.

The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture (PDA) is responsible for enforcement. They are taking an educational approach at the moment. But eventually a claim will be filed, an investigation launched, someone will be found in violation, and action will be taken.

While not being specific, Anderson said the penalties are rather stiff and warned against taking the attitude that if you ignore the law, it will go away. "It's like a sleeping dog," Anderson said. "Someone in time will be caught."

The law designates two classes of people, ag workers and pesticide handlers. You must give each of these groups their special training in first aid, safety, and the hazards of pesticides.

Anderson says he often sees a farmer stop his sprayer rig in the field, remove a clogged nozzel, blow it out with his mouth while standing in the sprayed area in his bare feet. "This kind of activity is an accident waiting to happen," Anderson said. "Pesticides have a very good record as far as injury to people and contamination of the ground water. They are very safe considering the way we use them. But if we don't take the common sense precautions, someone will eventually get sick."

Specific delayed entry times after application are also important. Each pesticide has its own reentry time that may be from a few hours to a few days. Each pesticide also has its own demands for warning farm workers about the application. Some you need to give verbal warnings, some posted warnings, and some both verbal and posted warnings. You are told on the label about these specifications.

Training for workers and handlers is also a part of the law. Each group of employees must be given the proper training. "Most of what the law implies is good common sense," Anderson said. "But some of the applications are going to be difficult for some people. Fortunately, with the law they also provided the training manuals and other materials needed to comply with the law.

"Everything in the law is for the protection we would want to give our people anyway. But we need to document what we are doing, and the paperwork will give some people a real hard time. But we need to keep notebooks and diaries to prove what we have done in the way of spraying fields and training workers. We need to get signatures from employees when we train them and give them the materials."

For answers to questions or to obtain training materials, contact your county agent's office for information. Or the Pennsylvania Department of Agricultrue may be contacted too.

When It Comes To Production, Van Blarcoms Are Top In State

CAROLYN N. MOYER
Bradford County Correspondent

COLUMBIA CROSS ROADS (Bradford Co.) — Ask Robert Van Blarcom what the key is in maintaining his high herd average and he'll mention several things. At the top of his list are switching to TMR, milking three times a day, and better genetics.

Van Blarcom began farming in 1977 with his parents, William and Mildred Van Blarcom. Prior to that he attended two years of college and worked in Frederick, Md., installing milking equipment.

Unlike some, Van Blarcom admits that farming was not his lifelong ambition. In fact, he laughs at how he fell into farming.

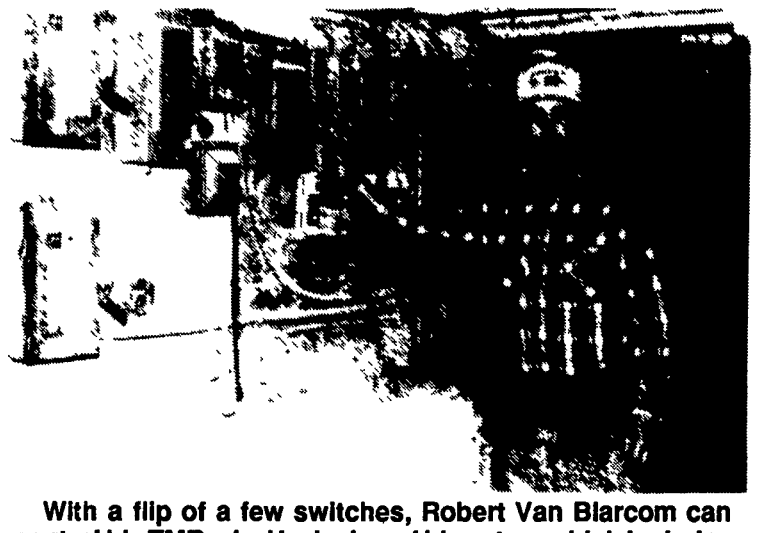
"I told my brother, Jim, that I was thinking about it. I was working on other people's farms and saw all these people working in the city and I said 'they're walking away from nice places.' I was in Frederick County, so it was kind of an expensive, growthy area. I thought that while they were working in the city, their farms were going down the tubes. Then I looked up and thought, it's not the same up there (in Bradford County). Ground isn't worth sick-em up there next to what it was down here. So I told Jim I was thinking about coming back to the farm — it was just a thought. He told my parents that I was."

After realizing that his brother had told his parents, Van Blarcom decided to talk more seriously about coming home to farm.

"When I said something to (my parents) they said, well, we're going to have to add a couple of silos and double the size of the herd. So they had gone that far with the planning. Then I felt if they were willing to do that much for me, that we'd go for it," he noted.

So he made the move. They increased the herd size to 74 milking and dry cows and started farming together.

The Robert Van Blarcom family farm is located on a picturesque knoll in Northwestern Bradford County. The farm has been in the family since 1958.



With a flip of a few switches, Robert Van Blarcom can control his TMR mix. He designed his setup, which includes scales, timed augers, and a roller mill.

In 1980, Van Blarcom married his wife, Donna, an Elmira College graduate with a degree in biochemistry. Although Donna worked off the farm for a couple of years, she is an integral part of the farming operation. The couple has four children, Shelly, 11; Jonathan, 9; Melissa, 8; and Elizabeth, 6.

Today the family has 88 cows on test.

"We've more than doubled production, but we've only increased five or six cows since we started. I've got a slip somewhere that says 12,800 pounds for herd average. That was our first year," he said.

In the past two years, the Van Blarcoms have been at the top of the list on the state DHIA reports with a herd average in excess of 29,000 pounds of milk. They've been in the top 10 for milk for the last five or six years.

"We were within 150 pounds of 30,000 at one point but we didn't stay there. That wasn't a goal, it just happened," he explained.

Their year-end average for 1994 was 29,136 pounds of milk, 906 pounds of protein, and 934 pounds of fat.

Their April 1995 test was slightly higher at 29,490 pounds of milk, 940 pounds of fat, and 909 pounds of protein, on 90 cows. About one-third of the cows in the herd are at 30,000 pounds or above in milk production. They've had a few cows stretch to the 40,000 pound mark.

Two-year-olds are expected to work as well.

"I expect a 2-year-old to make 23,000-24,000 pounds. We have a group of them that, right now, are doing a nice job. They're averaging about 100 pounds," he said "It used to be if you got a 100-pound 2-year-old you were pretty happy. I'm still happy with a 100-pound 2-year-old."

The Van Blarcoms average 90 pounds in the tank about six months out of the year and run a somatic cell count of 250,000. Their milk is marketed through Milk Marketing Incorporated.

"We were Eastern members. I've been a co-op member since I started farming," he said.

In their search to increase production while controlling feed costs, the Van Blarcoms switched to a TMR in January of 1989.

"That saves a lot on feed costs, because we buy ingredients instead of total mixes. We always have shelled corn, soybean meal, roasted beans, bakery by-products, cottonseed — we keep most of them on hand and buy them by the truck load."

Van Blarcom deals directly with the feed brokers. If they have the

HOMESTEAD NOTES

CAROLYN MOYER
Bradford Co. Correspondent

So many people have told me that there's no better place to raise a family than on a farm. Here I am holding Charlie, while my husband, Paul, holds Gregory.

Home for me is in the southeast corner of Tioga County, not far from Bradford and Lycoming counties. Many view this area as nothing more than prime hunting ground - a testimony that is heard on opening day of just about every season with the roar emanating from a steady stream of traffic. For my family, however, this is home regardless of the season and to us the area means dairying.

I grew up on a 500-acre Jersey farm not far from where I live now. After graduating from Penn State with a degree in agricultural science and a minor in dairy and animal science, I returned to the area and began my journalism career at a regional farm newspaper based in Bradford County.

Home is now a 325-acre Holstein and Jersey farm where my husband, Paul, farms with his parents. We now have two sons, Charlie and Gregory, and are expecting our third child early August - just in time to take to the fairs!

In the short year that I've been writing for Lancaster Farming, I've been privileged to meet many new people and renew old friendships in the farming community. I hope through my writing, that I'll be able to put a spotlight on farming northern Pennsylvania. After all, there's more to the area than deer, bear, and turkeys!

product he wants, he hits the road with his feed truck and picks up the product. Frequent trips are made to Geneva, N.Y. and Clarkstown, Pa. for the ingredients that make up his ration. He also buys some ingredients locally and grows 100 acres of corn and many acres of mostly grass hay on their 450 tillable acres. The remaining land is used as pasture.

"I buy almost where the feed mills buy. All you have to do is show up with a truck and a good check and they're ready to sell it to you for the same money," Van Blarcom said.

To store the commodities, he put in extra feed bins and converted part of the top of the barn to dump bins.

"I can take trailer loads of four different ingredients at a time," he said. "I don't always get trailer loads. You just get too much inventory for this many cows."

The soybean meal, shelled corn, and roasted beans are dispensed with the help of timed augers. All other ingredients are run across the scales.

The setup was mostly Van Blarcom's design. However, he did look at some other setups and worked closely with his nutritionist, Glen Kinsman.

"We used to do three mixes," said Van Blarcom. "A low mix, high mix, and a middle mix. Then we went to just one mix and topdressed, and now we're down to just one mix with no topdress. If I get some poor quality forage, I may go back to topdressing, but right now we're feeding better forage, so I don't need that much grain.

"The way to make money in the dairy industry is good forage. They've been saying that for years, but it's still true. We make money when we have our best forages, high quality haylage, and good corn silage."

The Van Blarcoms do grow some alfalfa, but are finding more and more that they can get the same milk production with good grass hay.

"We grow some alfalfa, but I'm realizing that with the dollars you have to work with, you can't do it all. We lose it too quickly." He said. "I plant alfalfa in the fields we can keep alfalfa on and the others I leave in grass. My dad was doing that when I started, and it took me almost 15 years to get back to doing a lot of the same things that he had learned."

Van Blarcom is also getting back into pasturing the animals more, especially the dry cows and heifers.

"I rotate the pastures, but not intensively. I break it down into 4-5 acre chunks," said Van Blarcom. "The milking cows have TMR in front of them all the time they're in the barn and hay in front of them when they're outside. All the dry cows and heifers that are old enough are rotationally grazed."

The decision to switch to three times a day milking came in the fall of 1989, again, as a way to increase revenue.

"The price of milk was up quite a bit and 10 percent increase in milk production was going to make quite a difference," he said.

Milking times are 6 a.m., 1:30 p.m., and 9:30 p.m. Van Blarcom and his wife typically take the morning and afternoon milkings while two hired hands trade off with the late milking.

"Three times a day is all right if you don't have to do it yourself," said Van Blarcom. "I wouldn't do it very many days if somebody called me up at 9 o'clock at night and said, 'Oh, I can't make it' — a couple of days like that and I'm back on twice a day."

Three milkings per day seems to work out well for the family.

"We have to ship a lot of milk all the time to pay our bills. We've got a lot of acreage. We've over invested in real estate and we're farming (ground) that we don't have a choice about."

He realizes, however, that their setup is not for everyone.

"If you're going to go down there and milk them three times a day, you might as well make sure it's worthwhile putting the milkers on them," he said. "If you're going

(Turn to Page B4)

Donna Van Blarcom takes a break by a few cows before the afternoon milking. The family milks three times a day and boasts a herd average of 29,490 pounds of milk, 940 pounds of fat, and 909 pounds of protein.

What do the month of June and Election Day evening have in common?

Both are when the "early returns" start to roll in.

Those "early returns" are the first fruits of the plantings over which farmers and gardeners have labored through April and May, and for some crops, year-round.

For farmers with traditional field crops, the most intense part of the spring-planting rush is past, and rows of green seedlings are emerging in neat rows. Now, we turn our full attention to the first fruits of that ongoing summer farm chore of harvesting - haymaking.

The sweet fragrance of new-mown hay, warm and wilting from the afternoon sun, is one of those signature smells of June country living. With the storm windows nudged up into summer storage position, the breezes gently wave the hay scent right into the house through the open, screened windows.

Just as a reminder of what makes those "first fruits" (and those that follow) grow, the scent of manure mingles with the hay, as one last heifer pen is cleaned out for the summer and its contents recycled back to Mother Earth.

Along with hay perfume come whiffs of the roses opening their first fruits. Their lovely blooms are a true harbinger of June, the queen of flowers in a myriad of colors. Though they will bloom intermittently through the rest of the summer, June is when the roses go "all out" in parading their graceful beauty.

Hours of work in the vegetable garden — planting, hoeing, hauling and laying down mulch — also begin their payback of yields. Reluctantly, we bid farewell to the wonderful, sweet asparagus, as the lingering stalks become fewer, thin and tough. Those will be left to mature and return strength to the roots toward next spring's yield.

But fat and thick, almost at the asparagus' feet, comes a lush row of Red Sails loosehead lettuce. With typical, gung-ho-gardener abandon, I sprinkled the remains of a pack of three-year-old seed into a market-pack flat weeks ago. Every seed must have sprouted.

The largest of the lettuce clusters now spreads more than a foot across, giant rosettes with tender yellow-green infant leaves at the center. In contrast are the wide margins of lovely maroon scalloping the edges of the deeply-crinkled, dark green mature leaves.

Mixed with the spinach a kindly neighbor and fellow-gardener keeps sharing, the Red Sails lettuce makes a beautiful, tasty and nutrition-packed salad. And a timely garden "fruit" to have ready, with lettuce fields destroyed by floods around the country.

As if to apologize for the destruction of last year's orchard crops, this season appears to be abundantly blessed with berries and fruits. Our young blueberry bushes I feared to be lost instead appear quite healthy. In fact, the largest promises to yield about a cup of berries, if I can persuade our backyard birds that since I grew 'em, I also intend to eat 'em. A bit of plastic netting draped over the fruiting bush may make that point.

Though our strawberry patch faded away over the last two years, fortunately lots of others around the area fared better. So while our new plants are sinking roots and spreading runners, we can still enjoy June's most famous and tasty first fruit. What could be more appropriately June than a big dish of fat, ripe, red strawberries?

Served up, of course, with the favorite "fruit" of our dairy cows — a great, big, dish of vanilla ice cream.

That alone makes June worth waiting for through the other 11 months of the year.

to get 60 pounds a cow average, there's no point in milking them three times a day. If you're going to get 90 pounds, well, you might as well take the pressure off the udders."

The Van Blarcoms also pay close attention to their genetic program, not necessarily to use only the top bulls, but to ensure the potential for high milk production while maintaining the strength needed.

"The herd is about 80 percent registered cows," said Van Blarcom. "All the milk cows are AI bred. We have a cleanup bull for the heifers."

If Van Blarcom does not have a bull that he wants to use, he will often select one from other "breeder-dairymen" in the area.

"I wouldn't call us breeders," Van Blarcom said. "We have a lot of registered cows and we breed a lot of AI, but we're not classification and type breeder farmers. Some people would call us breeders, but I won't. There's a lot of good dairymen who spend a lot more time knowing every cow's pedigree back three or four generations. I may know what they eat, but I may not know their pedigree back that far."

No matter what the emphasis of the dairyman, whether it's strictly milk production, breeding cow families or high quality feed, the bottom line for Van Blarcom is economics.

"I hope I put more emphasis on the economics, the dollars and cents of it," he saidd. "If I was a breeder and was selling cows for the kind of money that some of these guys do, that may be more profitable than what I'm doing now, but it's not my cup of tea."

When selecting bulls he sets the following criteria, "I like them to be even on protein or above and I don't want them too far minus on type. I've always got to have milk."

He works closely with the inseminator to make improvements where necessary.

He mainly culls for production, but also weeds out the problem cows.

"I don't cull type for type's sake. I cull cows if, for example, her feet are bad and she's not going to give enough milk, or if there's too much improvement to make, I'll put somebody better in the stall. I'll probably cull production first. As long as I've been doing it, I've been culling production. With a stall barn, we only have so many stalls to work with and you just have to get more milk per stall," he said.

Since being at the high producing level, Van Blarcom has learned the fine points of managing his herd.

"I get as much milk as I can and keep the cow healthy and not (hurt) her rumen. If you over grain them, you're going to get the grain in the manure and you're going to lose production. I don't think I push them more than they're capable of. If I do push them too far, it's going to cost me money," he said.

During the summer months, the Van Blarcoms keep two full-time hired men to help with field chores and the milking. One works mainly with the equipment while the other takes care of the heifers and works in the field.

Although other farmers have plenty of bad luck with their hired help, Van Blarcom admits that they've been pretty lucky. He also realizes that it takes a "people person" to manage a hired labor force.

"The next generation of farmers are not going to be the best milkers, the best tractor drivers — that's not going to be the dairyman. I think the next generation is going to be people handlers," he said.

As for the future of the dairy industry, the Van Blarcoms have a positive outlook.

"I'm guardedly optimistic," said Van Blarcom, "Because there's no point in being any other way if you're going to be in this business."

As for the political agreements that are in the works, Van Blarcom sees a brighter future, although the short-term situation is not favorable.

"The dairy farmers took it on the chin for the first half of GATT, because we're competing with foreign governments instead of other dairy farmers. We can compete with anyone's dairy farmers, but we can't compete with other governments. They're going to let quite a few dairy products in under GATT, and we can't export because we don't have the export base to work from. If we keep increasing our base over the next two or three years, if they follow the rules, soon we'll be on the same playing field."

Would he encourage his four children to get into dairying?

Van Blarcom said, "I will encourage them to do their own thing, but I would not discourage them to farm if that was their choice.

"Somebody's going to be making milk, and if you're capable of doing it, I can't think of a better place to raise a family. We're optimistic and we're going to be here."

American Gardens

America is a nation of gardeners. Yet, few native plants flourish in our home landscapes. Fortunately, landscape designers are rethinking the traditional home landscape of shade trees and clipped evergreens and shrubs.

One innovative and nationally recognized design team, Oehme Van Sweden and Associates is credited with starting a new wave of naturalism in landscape plantings. Wolfgang Oehme wrote in his book, Bold Romantic Gardens: "Sadly, many people prefer to tame nature, when nature is truly wild."

Instead he suggests gardeners use plants in their landscpaes that do not require pruning, staking, dead heading or dividing. These 'utility' plants include many grasses, sedges, succulents, trees, shrubs, vines and wildflowers. Here are just a few:

•Joe-Pye Weed "Gateway" —This showy, tall growing bushy-type, herbaceous perennial attracts not only the passing eye but butterflies as well. Its purplish, fuzzy flowers look great in back borders, meadows, and wetlands.

•Shadblow Serviceberry—Choose from tree and multi-stemmed shrub forms that produce red-purple fruit attractive to wildlife. They grow 20-30 feet and bloom with a cloud of tiny white flowers in the spring. Use them at woodland edges or as specimen trees near a patio or pool.

Naturalized Landscaped

Make the most of your landscape's natural environment. This goal may be easier said than done. New home sites with either a pond, rock outcropping, wetlands or meadows are difficult to find. What can you do?

In the words of Eliza Pennypacker, Associate Professor of Landscape Architecture at Penn State," skillfully edit the landscape." Look at a landscape and see the characteristics that are initially obscured and then bring that character out, largely through the subtraction of elements from the site." To become an environmental artist, follow these principles:

•Simplicity: A landscape will gently mimic nature. Use a fewer number of plant types and textures in planning the overall landscape design.

•Scale: Whether it be with a building or a sunset, with good scale; plants will complement their background.

•Balance: Choose plants that echo the texture of existing plants in the landscape.

•Rhythm and Line: A landscape scene will repeat plant types, textures and color.

Non-Plant Garden Project Ideas

•Build a frame for molding concrete stepping stones or landscape edging. Or, construct wood planters of all types: window boxes, raised garden beds or wood deck accessories. For information on designing and constructing wheelchair gardens, raised beds or garden boxes, contact your Extension Office.

•Make tomato supports out of scraps of wire mesh that is commonly used for reinforced concrete or make a plant hanger out of horseshoes.

•Recycle a 2 liter plastic bottle by removing its plastic base-cutting off the bottle top and using it as a terrarium or seed starting container. Or, use a 1 gallon clear plastic milk jug as a seed starting planter.

•Get your lawn mower ready for summer by sharpening the blade and putting on a new air filter. Look into adding a mulching mower attachment if available by the manufacturer. If you have a garden project idea, write to Tom Becker at Penn State Cooperative Extension, 112 Pleasant Acres Road, York, PA 17402.

Cream Of The Crop Recipes

What better time to showcase American's dairy farmers, the dairy industry and its products than June Dairy Month — a celebration that has been observed nationwide since 1937.

Lancaster Farming holds an annual dairy recipe contest as a salute to dairy farmers who produce nutritious milk and other dairy products to make these delicious recipes.

We thank the many readers who sent in recipes. Each week during June Dairy Month, a portion of the entries will be printed. Winners in the Cow Mania Contest will be published on June 24.

A special thanks goes to the readers who wrote something about themselves and sent a picture. It's our readers who make this contest and the dairy recipes a popular event.

So, during June Dairy Month, thank a farmer by trying several of these delectable recipes.

I have so many cookbooks, but I still cut recipes out of the "Lancaster Farming."

I just made my 70th birthday on May 2. We have a family of five married children and 18 grandchildren, 5 of them are married. We do have a great time at Thanksgiving and Christmas. This recipe is a nice one to serve at Christmas.

CHEESECAKE

6 eggs
4 packages 8 ounce cream cheese
4 cups sour cream
2 cups sugar
½ cup sugar for topping
2 teaspoons vanilla
½ cup chopped walnuts
1¼ cup graham cracker crumbs
2 tablespoons butter

Cream cheese very creamy. Add sugar. Beat again until pasty. Add one egg at a time. Beat well after each egg. Add sugar and mix well. Put vanilla into sour cream and fold into mixture.

Crust: melt butter and mix with graham cracker crumbs. Add sugar and nuts. (I add a little brown sugar. It helps hold it together.) Press crust into angel food pan. Pour cake mixture on top. Run a knife through to remove air bubbles. Bake at 375 degrees for one hour. Then turn oven off and leave cake in for ½ hour longer.

Cooking teacher and TV personality Francis Anthony, known as the "Love Chef," appears frequently on Live with Regis and Kathy Lee. He was given this affectionate title 20 years ago by a student of his "Cooking with Love" course, who said that since he cooked with so much love, he must be the Love Chef. Try his recipe for this luscious, creamy Penne Pasta with Prosciutto...

Penne Pasta With Prosciutto Sauce

1 cup whipping cream
½ cup fresh or frozen green peas
Freshly ground black pepper to taste
¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese

Cook pasta according to package directions until tender yet firm; drain and set aside. Meanwhile, in a medium skillet over medium heat, melt butter. Add prosciutto and onion; cook until onion is tender, 3 to 5 minutes, stirring frequently. Stir in tomatoes. Add cream, peas and pepper; simmer until mixture is slightly thickened, about 5 minutes. Stir in Parmesan cheese. Toss cream mixture with pasta. YIELD: 4 to 6 servings.

*Cooked ham may be substituted for prosciutto.

My husband Jim farms with his father, brother, and brother-in-law. They also have a fertilizer business. We have three children, Andy, 16; Crystal, 15; and Duane, 11. We have a vegetable garden and for relaxation, we like to go water skiing in the summertime. My family likes this recipe for Sunday morning brunch.

AUNT MARION'S FRUIT SALAD

11 ounce can mandarin oranges
20 ounce can pineapple chunks
16 ounce peach slices, cut in bite size shapes
3 bananas sliced
2 red apples cut in bite size pieces

Drain all canner fruit very well. Mix all fruit well.

Sauce: 1 package (3¾ ounce) vanilla instant pudding
1 cup milk
⅓ cup orange juice concentrate (no water added)
¾ cup sour cream

Combine sauce ingredients, beating until thick and smooth. Mix into the fruit mixture. Stir well. Serve. Chill any leftovers. In the summer the salad can be garnished with fresh blueberries or raspberries.

My Aunt Marion, who I am named after shared this recipe with me. It is a wonderful dish, and I usually have to double or triple the batch when I am taking it out for family gatherings. We farm here in Northeast in Wayne County. We board dairy heifers on contract. Presently, we have 118 animals at our facility. This is our third year in business.

EASY MACARONI AND CHEESE

3 tablespoons butter
2½ cups uncooked macaroni
1 teaspoon salt
Pepper according to taste
1 quart milk
4-5 slices Velveeta cheese or more if desired

Melt butter in a 3-quart baking dish. Pour macaroni into melted butter. Stir until butter coats macaroni. Sprinkle salt and pepper on top. Cut each cheese slice in fourths and scatter on top. Add cold milk. Bake uncovered at 325 degrees for 1½ hours or until golden brown and creamy.

This is often part of our Sunday special menu. The nine of us can finish off a 5-quart dishful in a single meal.

I'm the 15-year-old (16 in July) daughter of John and Rosene Zimmerman. I have six younger siblings, 2 brothers, Jerry, 13; David, 11; and four sisters, Doris, 10; Joy, 8; Anita, 6, and Rosa, 2.

Up until a year and a half ago, we had a dairy herd. Now, Dad still farms and fattens steers and heifers. Mom bakes to sell May through December. And we all help in the vegetable patches we truck farm.

PINEAPPLE BUTTERMILK DESSERT

20-ounces crushed pineapple
2 3-ounce boxes apricot Jell-O
2 cups buttermilk
8-ounces whipped cream

Put pineapple in saucepan and bring to a boil. Add Jell-O and stir over heat until dissolved. Remove from heat and cool.

Put ice cubes and water in sink and put saucepan in sink to cool. When Jell-O and pineapple cool, it will become jelled. Add buttermilk, still leaving pan in sink of water. Mixture will thicken. Finally add whipped cream and pour into 13x9-inch glass dish and chill.

Once Jell-O has chilled, cut into squares to serve.

It's a very refreshing dessert on a hot summer night after a hard day's work on the farm.

I live on a 90-cow dairy farm in Armstrong County. The farm's name is Star-Lite Acres. My family farms 600 acres of ground.

My grandparents, Roy E. and Martha Bowser, own the farm, but my family, the Freehlings do the farming.

I enjoy helping on the farm in my sparetime. During the day, I work for a local surgeon. I'm not afraid to work and get dirty. I love to cook and bake.

I'd like to meet a single dairy farmer between the age 30-40 years old.

Dear friends at Lancaster Farming:

This is a recipe my mom made for Sunday School class meetings years ago. We like it and hope you do, too. It will serve a dozen or more.

My husband Joe and I continue farming as well as remodeling a neighboring old house during the winter and on rainy days. Along with our work with the Sugar Valley Church of the Brethren, we have been kept busy. We're thankful we're able to be busy. Best wishes.

YUMMY CHICKEN CASSEROLE

1 chicken, cooked and diced
2½ cups stuffing
8-12-ounces plain yogurt or sour cream
½ cup butter, melted
1 can cream of chicken soup
1 cup chicken broth

Combine butter and stuffing. Line a 2-quart casserole with stuffing mix. Reserve ½ cup. Sprinkle chicken over stuffing. Combine sour cream or yogurt, broth, and soup. Spread over chicken. Sprinkle with remaining ½ cup stuffing. Refrigerate overnight. Bake at 350 degrees approximately 45 minutes, uncovered.

My husband and I and our three children own a dairy farm. We milk 58 cows and have 100 young calves and heifers. My husband farms approximately 550 acres. We raise alfalfa, corn, wheat, soybeans, and pumpkins.

Our family loves living in the country. Our children Seth, Sara, and Rachel help a lot with farm chores. We have one dog Dusty, a Jack Russel Terrier, who is our little baby. He loves to catch rats, birds, and bees. He stays by our side no matter what we do. He rides in the tractors, wagons, trucks, and even the wheelbarrow. We have 10 cats. We love working together. We are thankful each day for health and strength to be able to work hard on our farm.

ANSWER — Linda Lundberg of Great Meadows wanted a recipe for pumpkin butter. Thanks to Susan Stahr, Emporium, for sending this recipe that tastes great on breads and muffins.

Pumpkin Butter
(Makes 2 cups)

16-ounce can solid pack pumpkin
⅔ cup firmly packed brown sugar
¼ cup honey
1 tablespoon lemon juice
¼ teaspoon ground cinnamon
⅛ teaspoon ground cloves

In a medium saucepan, combine ingredients; mix well. Bring to a boil over medium heat, stirring frequently. Reduce heat. Simmer 20 minutes or until thickened, stir occasionally. Pour hot mixture into sterilized canning jars. Seal immediately.

ANSWER — A Chambersburg lover of Section B asked if meadow tea and spearmint tea are caffeine free? Thanks to Pat Sweetman from Stone Haus Herbs, Stewartstown, who sounds like an expert. She writes that meadow tea and spearmint tea are both caffeine free. Tea, she writes, is merely an herb infused for a period in a liquid (usually hot for best results) to remove flavor. The only herbs with caffeine, that she is aware of, are coffee cocoa and the leaves of the tea bush. The bush caffeine is the result of processing. Green tea is the healthiest.

ANSWER — For Ron Kieffer, Hamburg, who wanted a recipe for raspberry syrup, here is one from Pat Elligson, Millers, Md.

Black Raspberry Syrup

2 quarts raspberries
1 quart sugar
¾ cup cold water

Wash and mash berries. Sprinkle with sugar. Stir to blend, cover, and let stand overnight in refrigerator. In the morning, add water and slowly bring to the boiling point. Cook for 20 minutes. Force mixture through a double thickness of cheesecloth, again bring to boiling. Fill sterilized small jars and adjust lids. Use as a foundation for beverages, ice, and sauces. Good served over vanilla ice cream.

2 teaspoons salt
1½ cups tomato juice
1 teaspoon dry mustard

Soak beans overnight in cold water. Drain in the morning and add 2 quarts fresh water.

½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon orange or lemon rind (optional)
1 cup butter
1 cup sour cream or vanilla yogurt
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 large eggs
2 cups sugar

Put all ingredients in a bowl and beat for three minutes. Put in greased and floured bundt pan. Bake at 325 degrees for 1½ hours. Cool 10 minutes and shake out of pan.

My husband and I have a small farm. We have cattle, pigs, chickens, ducks, pheasants, and peacocks. My husband, Raymond, is a full-time electrician and part-time farmer. I'm a full-time mother of two: my son Sean and my daughter Tyler, and a part-time cashier for a leading supermarket.

We are hoping to move to Virginia in a few years and become full-time farmers.

SOFT SUGAR CAKES

Cream together:
1½ cups granulated sugar
1 cup shortening
3 eggs
Sift together:
3½ cups flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup buttermilk
1 teaspoon vanilla

Lightly grease cookie sheets. Bake at 350 degrees for 10 minutes or until brown.

This recipe was given to my mother by a neighbor. I always thought her sugar cookies were the best and so did a lot of people wherever she took them.

I grew up on a farm and now live out in the country with my husband of 26 years. We have three children—one son, married, one son to be married next summer, and an 11-year-old daughter.

One of my hobbies is cooking. I try to make a new recipe once a week. I'm just drawn to cookbooks or to clip or try the many recipes found in the Lancaster Farming. Thanks for this great recipe selection each week.

Third Graders See That 'Rain Forest' Contains Many Household Plants

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

ELVERSON (Chester Co.) — "Have any of you been there yet?"

Melissa Makris, Twin Valley FFA member, looked over the group of third graders from Honey Brook, asking them if they'd ever been to the (slowly dwindling) rain forests of South America.

None raised their hands.

Then Melissa asked them, "Did you see our rain forest yet?"

The tour group from Mrs. Lana Rodgers' third grade class hadn't yet visited the greenhouse at Twin Valley, host to about 18 different types of rain forest plants.

When the group finally did make it into the sunny, steamy room, some were surprised. One pointed to a leafy, thick plant.

"What's that?" a third grader from Mrs. Ellie Wolf's class asked.

"A coffee plant," said Erica Lindberg, a sophomore at Twin Valley. Erica spoke to the third graders about the many plant types grown at the greenhouse.

A few of the children recognized the plants as some that are grown at home.

"Many of the common plants we have in the home are another type of thing we get from the rain forest that we don't know about," said Renee Frederick. Common plants include fuchsia, the spider plant, ferns, bougainvillea, and many others.

Along with husband Ron Frederick, ag science teacher at Twin Valley, and a host of Twin Valley FFA members, Renee assisted in the day-long FFA Food For America activities recently.

In all, about 243 third graders from Robeson, Twin Valley Elementary, and Honey Brook toured the ag science exhibits at the school.

The exhibits were arranged in eight "centers," including a greenhouse; reptiles, amphibians, and fish; woodworking; an animal petting zoo; a groundwater workshop; and birds.

Also included were the rain forest and food science center.

At the food science center, third graders were shown how to make ice cream by hand.

Outside, Lura Blosenski, freshman at Twin Valley, showed two polled Dorset sheep, each about seven months old. Their names were Daisy and Maggie. Third graders had a chance to see what raw wool feels like.

Lura said it takes about two sheep that age and size to make a sweater.

Andy Risbon, Twin Valley senior, helped the third graders hammer together a wooden bird house.

Adrienne Neff, junior, and Mark Wright, freshman, provided a groundwater demonstration to show how well water can become contaminated.

Denetra Gerberich, senior, showed children from Mrs. Ellie Wolf's third grade class how to feed and care for catfish.

Melissa Kegerise, sophomore, spoke about the many different birds found in a rain forest.

Michelle Jacobs, senior, showed the third graders her corn snake, a native Pennsylvania reptile. It tried to make its way to "food" — a small rat.

Throughout the day, third graders came in also to view where food comes from and take home with them some rain forest plants grown in a greenhouse.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

We got to see our youngest grandson, Bryan, sooner than I expected. Last week I mentioned a small family gathering to celebrate my birthday. It turned out to be a large group as all of my sisters attended. One came with her husband from Michigan. And, as I mentioned earlier, there too were our youngest daughter and her family from Texas.

It was well planned and a nice room was reserved at a local restaurant. There were flowers everywhere. I had just filled three white plastic planters with impatiens. Now, I have two large pink hanging geraniums to add to the front porch decorations. The floral arrangement and big cake were beautiful too as were the colorful balloons. They really surprised me!

Two of our children from far away both came to stay overnight. Neither knew the other was coming. Often we give our bedroom to them as it is the largest. Children don't seem to mind using sleeping bags on the floor.

This year again I planted several unusual kinds of seeds. Some are from Landis Valley Heirloom Seed Catalog. I planted an herb called Burnet which is a bushy perennial with a cucumber taste and fragrance and it has pinkish-scarlet blossoms. Then too I've always liked lovage as it has a celery-like taste. I've never tried growing caraway before and so I put some in our garden as it is believed to help aerate heavy soils.

Of course, I put in flower seed too — coreopsis, strawflower, honesty and shasta daisies. This year I'm quite pleased with my many colored carnations. My daughter sent me money for Christmas and asked me to use it for plants. That was easy to do as I ordered astilbe and lily bulbs. Now I'll have to wait and see if they bloom and look as beautiful as their picture in the catalog.

Ice Cream — The Old-Fashioned Way

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

LOGANVILLE (York Co.)—At Carman's Ice Cream, that favorite summertime frozen dessert is still produced in the traditional, homemade, old-fashioned way.

Made in ten-gallon batches, Carmen's ice cream is mixed in stainless-steel cans and spun in a water-calcium bath that results in a product of wonderful flavor and homemade texture. When each batch is ready, the beater is carefully removed from the shiny can, the ice cream scraped from the beaters — by hand — and the finished product hand-dipped into cardboard containers.

The result is a renowned ice cream that draws steady streams of customers from as close as across Loganville's wide Main Street to those who drive from other states for their favorite frozen dessert. Through the popular June strawberry and ice-cream season, Carman's Ice Cream sales hit peak demand for the 34,000 gallons produced annually.

Carman's is owned and operated by Lucille and Ron Dowell, daughter and son-in-law of Ervin and Alene Carman who founded the family's ice cream business in Loganville.

"My grandfather made ice cream in Winterstown many years ago; it was served at the hotel there and probably sold to neighbors of the area," explains Lucille. "So my dad knew something about ice cream making from his childhood."

Carman originally ran a milk delivery route, like some of his brothers. Son-in-law Ron Dowell came on in 1956 to help with the delivery routes, after completing military service. But the milk business eventually fell by the wayside as the ice cream sales mushroomed.

Allen McKinney scrapes the beaters of a fresh batch of Carman's Ice Cream.

The Carman's Ice Cream tradition started in 1952, when Ervin Carman began making five-gallon batches of the creamy, cold treat in the family's basement. Neighbors often asked when they would be making ice cream and a year later, they were selling to eager customers. As demand outgrew the basement's confines, the ice-cream making was moved to a small washhouse behind the Carman's home. Ice was another Carman commodity for many years, sold in the earlier days from old wooden tubs.

"We still occasionally have people ask if we still sell ice; but we haven't handled it for about 15 years," notes Ron.

With a few outward expansions of the walls and some equipment upgrades, Carman's Ice Cream is still sold from the "washhouse," with its small salesroom along the side. On a usual morning, neighbors drop in to visit, vendors deliver supplies, the phone rings, customers stop to make their purchases, and the steady hum of the ten-gallon stainless steel can freezing ice cream adds to the hectic pace.

Another tradition still followed at Carman's is sending their customers home with their ice cream purchases neatly wrapped in yesterday's newspapers.

"We recycled for years and years before it became popular," chuckles Lucille "My dad started wrapping the ice cream containers in paper for insulation against melting while customers took it home, and we've just continued that."

The first batch of ice cream is usually spinning in its stainless freezing can by 6 a.m. every Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. By noon, 14 or 15 batches have been spin-frozen, hand-dipped into containers and stashed away in the walk-in freezer. During the demanding strawberry season, that schedule expands to six days a week, plus an occasional very early Sunday morning freezing session before church.

Carman's Ice Cream begins with a commercial base mix from Rutter's Dairy, plus the family's own blend of added ingredients. Thickening agents in Carman's finished product are less than one-

POTATO SOUP WITH DUMPLINGS

8 small onions
8 small potatoes
1 quart milk
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
4 tablespoons butter
4 slices bacon, cooked and crumbled

Cook onions and potatoes in a small amount of boiling salted water for 15 minutes. Drain. In large, deep pot, heat milk, salt, pepper, butter, bacon, onions, and potatoes until milk boils. Stir together dumpling mixture with fork until dampened:

Dumplings:
2 cups biscuit mix
4 tablespoons corn meal
1 cup shredded cheddar cheese
⅔ cup water

When milk boils gently, drop spoonfuls of dumpling dough into milk. Cover, simmer 10 minutes or until dumplings are done. Serves 4.

My husband George retired from his full-time job in September 1994. He is now farming full time on a small scale.

The Lord has blessed us with 19 grandchildren. We get to see most of them on a regular basis. Samantha, the little girl born prematurely in early 1993, is growing slowly. She is legally blind and doesn't walk or talk, yet. She gets physical and vision therapy every week. We still have high hopes for her.

I am working part time at our church. I still enjoy reading all the "Home on the Range" recipes and use many of them.

My husband Gary and I live in Portage on the family farm. We have four children ranging in age 9 to 3. I enjoy baking and trying new dishes. My husband likes to restore old farm tractors and helps out around the farm. The children like to help feed the cows and do whatever other small jobs need to be done around the farm to help.

HUNGARIAN BEEF

Preparation time: 3 hours. Slow simmering develops this paprika-flavored, robust stew.

3 pounds beef cubes
2 tablespoons vegetable oil
4 cups sliced onion
1 46-ounce can beef broth
1 tablespoon paprika
2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
1 cup sour cream
1 12-ounce package noodles

In a large heavy pot, over medium high heat, brown beef in hot oil. Remove beef from pan and reduce heat to medium. Cook onions in pan drippings until tender, about 10 minutes. Add beef, 2½ cups beef broth, and paprika; heat to a boil. Cover, reduce heat, and simmer two hours.

Blend flour into ½ cup broth, stir into beef mixture. Simmer 15 minutes. Stir ½ cup of gravy into sour cream. Stir sour cream into beef, stirring until heated through (do not boil).

Meanwhile, add 2 quarts of water to remaining beef broth. Cook noodles according to package directions. Serve beef over noodles. Makes 14 one-cup servings.

HOT CHICKEN SALAD

2 cups diced, cooked chicken
1½ cups diced celery
1 cup croutons
½ cup slivered toasted almonds
1½ teaspoon grated Parmesan cheese
4 tablespoons mayonnaise
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup crushed potato chips
½ cup grated cheddar cheese

In a crockpot, combine chicken, celery, croutons, almonds, and parmesan cheese. Toss together to mix.

In a small bowl combine mayonnaise, lemon juice, and salt. Stir until well blended. Pour over chicken mixture. Stir to coat thoroughly. Cover and cook on low for 2-3 hours. Sprinkle with potato chips and cheddar cheese. Turn to high and cook another 20 minutes or until cheese melts.

I suppose having a mommy and a daddy who both grew up on farms, one would expect the first words spoken to include "moo." Well, Ashley didn't let us down, however, one of her favorite words is tractor! She loves them all. I wonder if Grandpa will have any influenced in her preferring a specific color tractor in the future?

EGG CUSTARD

6 eggs
½ cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
4 cups milk, scalded

Beat eggs (you may reduce to 4, but tastes richer with 6), add sugar and beat again. Add salt, vanilla, and cinnamon. Mix with scalded milk. Pour into custard cups and set in water to bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes.

I got this recipe from my mother. It's a favorite among my family. So healthy and easy to make.

Since we live on a farm with 127,000 laying chickens, we certainly have plenty of eggs. That's when I started using six instead of 4 eggs. Now that's the only way that my husband likes egg custard.

We enjoy our peaceful, beautiful valley here in Juniata County. Surrounded by woods, pine trees, and wildlife galore. My husband also farms 100-plus acres of soybeans, corn, and alfalfa and has a Chemgro Seed dealership.

I'm a domestic homemaker and enjoy sewing potholders, which I sell to different craft shops. I also enjoy reading, cooking, and enjoying our four children who are Jason, 8; Ann Merlene, 5; Anthony, 3, and Susan Marie, 16 months.

TROPICAL SALAD

1 pint sour cream
1 can crushed pineapple (drained)
1 can mandarin oranges (drained)
2 cups miniature marshmallows

Mix together all ingredients and refrigerate overnight before serving.

This is a very simple but delicious cool salad that we enjoy very much. My husband and I work for his parents on their dairy farm, where we milk about 90 Holsteins and grow corn, alfalfa, and soybeans. I also have my own herd of Holsteins in my kitchen, which I enjoy almost as much as those in the barn.

percent, from the mix, with extra cream added instead for the desired consistency and a 14 percent butterfat level.

Earlier this year, when Ron Dowell broke his wrist, his son-in-law, Allen McKinney, began helping with the ice cream making. A minister with the York Church of Christ, Ron still preaches some Sundays, but he is best known as the fourth-generation Carman's Ice Cream maker, selling to second and third-generations of customers.

Ron's wife, Pat, and her brothers and sisters all grew up helping to sell ice cream. Now their two teen-aged sons and another cousin earn spending money waiting on ice cream customers during busy times, although Lucille still handles the majority of the retail sales.

Deliveries are made by Ron two days per week to long-time retail-sales customers around southern York County, increasing to three days during strawberry season. Summer brings an added sales dimension, since many of the popular southern York County church picnics sell Carman's Ice Cream. Often, two or three picnics are scheduled for the same Saturday.

Although the Dowells make 16 or 17 different flavors, including such customer favorites as peach, black raspberry and orange-pineapple, vanilla remains the hands-down favorite. Only top-grade fresh-frozen fruits, chocolates, nuts and other ingredients are used for flavoring.

"My favorite is chocolate chip," Allen decides after some thought, while mixing about the dozenth batch of ice cream for the morning's freezing. Lucille likes "the odd flavors, anything different," while Ron opts for the traditional vanilla and chocolate as his top choices.

Every batch is taste-sampled for quality before being promptly hand-dipped into the round white cardboard containers.

Carman's is regularly inspected by the Dairy Division of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, on a checklist of items.

While their ice cream production volume is limited due to space and the family workforce, there are no plans to expand the successful traditions that Carman's customers have come to expect. Nor are there any plans to close the business.

"We get calls all the time from people worried that we're going out of business," grins Ron, who reassures customers that they have no such intentions.

Many of the folks among Carman's long-time clientele have become like family; some send photos and notes about their experiences with their ice cream purchases. A favorite photo, framed at the store, shows a customer's dog with its head buried deep inside a large Carman's Ice Cream container. Other photos depict customers' kids and grandkids, enjoying ice cream in various ways, but always with big, happy grins on their faces.

And while Carman's is largely a local name in the ice cream business, customers have hauled it as far as the West Coast. Some stop by on their travels in recreational vehicles, squirreling away supplies of Carman's product in their freezers. Others pack it for long-hauls in picnic coolers, laced with dry ice for the journey. One camp cook has trucked whole freezerfuls of Carman's Ice Cream to a recreational camp in Connecticut.

The business has also been featured in numerous newspaper and magazine articles, as well as some occasional television spots from local and regional stations.

Carman's Ice Cream is located on North Main Street of Loganville. Retail hours are from 9 a.m. through 8:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday, and 2 to 6 p.m. on Sundays.

Make Each Anniversary Count

Although in the 1990s April and October have become popular wedding months, June is still a favorite time for couples to exchange vows. This means that June is also a time when many couples celebrate anniversaries.

Most couples are married fewer than 50 years. Consequently, it's important to make each of these 50 celebrations count. And considering the current divorce rate—1.1 million divorces annually—each of us who is happily married certainly has reason to celebrate.

Dr. Thomas Lee, Utah State University, says, "Many couples will not have all of the (marriage success) factors in their favor and will still have successful marriages. Some with the odds in their favor will fail nevertheless. Part of the difference lies in the extent to which couples take care of their marriage."

One way to take care of your marriage is to make your anniversary celebration a special, personalized one. This past year my husband and I really enjoyed our anniversary. I sent him on a "treasure hunt" to spots around the community that held significance to us as a couple—the place of our first date, where he proposed to me, etc. We ended the evening with a gourmet dinner at home. I had a lot of fun reminiscing as I planned it, and fortunately, he had fun during the evening activities. Each year we also restate our vows to one another. To me, they get more meaningful each time we say them because we think back on the joys and sorrows that we have shared during the year.

If you're looking for a way to make this year's anniversary special, or if you just want to remind your spouse of your love, here are some ideas from Dr. Glen Jenson, family life specialist at Utah State University.

Jenson suggests:

- Take a vacation to the place of your courtship or early years of marriage. Go to a restaurant that you frequented during your courtship.
- Spend a few hours looking through your wedding album or watching your ceremony video. Play music that reminds you of your early years of marriage. Replay the song that you danced to on your wedding day, and invite each other to dance again.
- Reaffirm old vows or write new ones that have to do with the challenges ahead. Reflect on the year. What positive things happened in your marriage? What not-so-positive things happened that you can learn from?
- Arrange to take your anniversary day off from work. Isn't it as important as any national or state holiday?
- Together do something entirely new and different. Why wait until mid-life or retirement to do something crazy? Create a memory today.

Research reveals that couples who talk with each other often, are sensitive to each other's feelings, and use non-verbal communication will tend to maintain strong, satisfying marriages. Your anniversary is a great time to reinforce some of these habits.

And the exciting thing about taking time to celebrate your marriage and keep it strong is that you set a wonderful example for the children in your home. Studies show that if a couple's parents are happily married, the younger couple is more likely to be happily married and less likely to divorce. By taking care of your marriage, you're giving a gift to your spouse AND your children.

Dairy Baby Is Their First Child

Shalanna Neufeld popped into the world at 12:22 a.m. on June 1, earning her the title June Dairy Baby and a basketful of dairy products for her parents, Philip and Elizabeth Neufeld of Akron. Traditionally, the Lancaster County Dairy Promotion Committee presents the goodies to the first baby born in the county and hands out "I love milk" T-shirts to every baby born at the county hospitals during June Dairy Month. Lancaster County Dairy Princess Amy Espenshade made the presentation.

Cream Of The Crop

Eugene and Sharon Plett with daughters Sharla, 3, and Renita, 1.

TACO SQUARES

1 cup Bisquick
¼ cup cold water
½ pound ground beef
2 medium tomatoes, sliced
½ cup green peppers, chopped
½ cup dairy sour cream
⅓ cup mayonnaise
½ cup cheddar cheese
1 tablespoon onion, chopped

Mix together Bisquick and water. Put in a greased 8x8x2-inch pan or dish. Cook and drain beef and put over Bisquick mixture. Cover with sliced tomatoes and sprinkle on green peppers. Mix together sour cream, mayonnaise, cheese, and onion and spread on top of peppers. Bake at 325 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes.

My husband Eugene and I live on a hog farm in Ephrata. We are also blessed with having two little girls, Sharla, 3, and Renita, 1, which adds a lot to our home. The girls love outdoor life and going out to the barn to visit dad and the pigs.

Gene enjoys woodworking and I love counted cross stitch. We also enjoy camping, hiking, biking, and just spending time together as a family.

LAYER FINGER JELL-O

6 ounces Jell-O (any flavor)
2 cups hot water

Pour into a 9-inch by 13-inch baking dish. Let harden.

Next layer:
1 cup whipping cream
½ cup sugar
1½ tablespoon unflavored gelatin dissolved in ½ cup cold water

Bring to a boil, then add:
1 cup sour cream
1 teaspoon vanilla

Cool, then pour on top of Jell-O. When it hardens, add another layer of Jell-O.

I got this recipe from my sister and we love it! We have two girls and live on an 80-acre dairy farm, milking 45 cows. The work keeps us busy!

GRAHAM CRACKER CHEESE PIE

3 cups graham cracker crumbs
¼ cup sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon (optional)
¼ pound butter

Line 9-inch by 13-inch baking dish with crumb mixture, and save a few crumbs for on top. Mix together:

2 8-ounce packages of cream cheese
½ cup sugar
1 cup warm milk

Add two large boxes of instant vanilla pudding and 4 cups milk. Beat till thick and smooth. Pour over graham cracker crumbs and sprinkle the top with remaining crumbs. Refrigerate until ready to serve.

We live on a dairy farm and have been farming for 36 years. We have three grown children and six grandchildren. This recipe is a favorite of ours when we get together for a family picnic or Sunday dinner.

BLUE CHEESE DIP

3 cups lowfat cottage cheese
⅓ cup coarsely crumbled blue cheese
1 tablespoon fresh parsley
2 tablespoons chopped onion tops

Blend cottage cheese and blue cheese for 15 seconds in blender or food processor. Stir in parsley and onion tops.

Serve with raw vegetables or corn chips. Also good as a topping for baked potatoes. About 11 calories per tablespoon.

My husband and his brother farm a dairy farm that has been in the family for six generations. Our children live in four states, Florida, Virginia, California, and Pennsylvania. It doesn't look like any will stay on the farm. We seldom see our three granddaughters.

I work as a health aide doing home care.

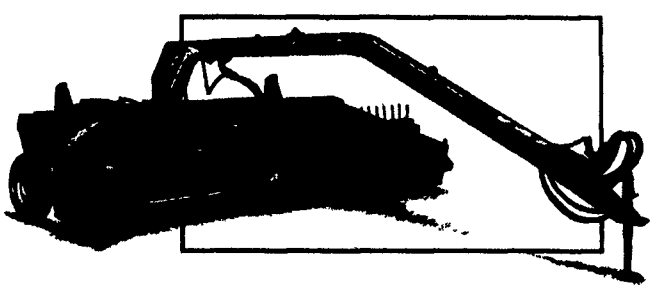
GEHL

CUT 'N TURN



Gehl swing-frame mower conditioners are designed to cut your biggest hayfields down to size. Gehl swing-frames give you the capacity and maneuverability of a self-propelled mower conditioner at a pull-type price. Gehl also makes conventional sicklebar models as well as disc mower conditioners.

Gehl's swing-frame mower conditioners feature:
— Full-width conditioning rolls with intermittent ribs.
— Total hydraulic drive for smooth operation.
— Center-pivot design for excellent maneuverability.
— Three-pint flotation support protects the cutterbar.
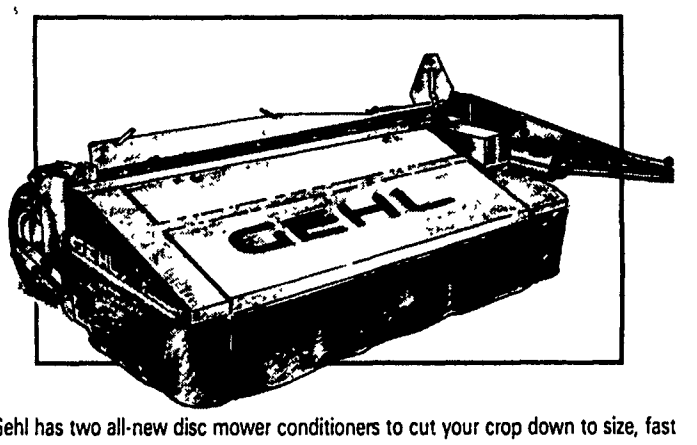
— Easily adjustable for full-width swaths of high-standing windrows.

CUT HAY THE DISC WAY!



Gehl has two all-new disc mower conditioners to cut your crop down to size, fast and easy. The DC2340 has 7 discs and a 9 foot cutting width; the DC2360 has 8 discs and a 10-1/2 foot cutting width.

- High speed discs – Each disc has two knives to slice through the toughest crops and conditions; the disc gear drive operates in an oil bath for long life.
- Sturdy frame – Cradles the cutterbar for extra protection and durability.
- 540 or 1,000 rpm driveline with equal-angle hitch for smooth power transfer.
- Standard hydraulic tongue – Makes it easy to position the unit without leaving the tractor seat.

You ask You answer

This column is for readers who have questions but don't know whom to ask for answers.

"You Ask—You Answer" is for non-cooking questions. When a reader sends in a question, it will be printed in the paper. Readers who know the answer are asked to respond by mailing the answer, which will then be printed in the paper.

Questions and Answers to this column should be addressed to You Ask—You Answer, Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. Attention: Lou Ann Good.

There's no need to send a SASE. If we receive an answer to your question, we will publish it as soon as possible.

QUESTION — Lois Burkholder, Washington Boro, wanted to know why her iris does not bloom.

QUESTION — George Ueltzen, Saylorsburg, wanted to know how to get rid of carpenter bees in his barn and out buildings, which are full of holes. Nothing but a tennis racket seems to stop them.

QUESTION — Lois Burkholder, Washington Boro, wanted to know why her rhubarb goes to seed as soon as it starts growing.

Esther writes that when she visited Europe, the Austrians especially served puffed cereals and one of her favorites was puffed peas served with soup.

QUESTION — Patricia Varchol, Reinholds, writes that she started plants from seed for her large garden. She used a commercial planting mix for starting the seed, grew the plants under lights for 15 hours a day, watered from the bottom and watered only enough to keep them from drying out. She had a great germination rate, but since then has lost almost all the seedlings to damping off. Every time she has tried to start seeds, the seedlings met the same fate.

She knows it's too late this season, but are there tips or tricks to try next year to keep this from happening?

CHOCOLATE CHIP ICE CREAM

2¼ cups sugar
1 teaspoon salt
2½ cups half and half
1½ teaspoons vanilla
12 ounces semi-sweet chocolate chips

Mixture is for a 4-quart freezer. Scald milk until bubbles form around edge. Remove from heat. Add sugar and salt. Stir until dissolved. Stir in half and half, vanilla and whipping cream. Cover and refrigerate 30 minutes. Freeze in ice cream freezer as directed. Immediately after removing dasher, stir in chocolate chips.

Cookies and cream: substitute crushed chocolate sandwich cookies for chocolate chips.

I am a stay-at-home mom for my two children ages 2 and 3. My husband is a sawyer/mechanic with Wickizer Wood Products of South Tamaqua. We've started a tradition about two or three years ago to make the above recipe on Thanksgiving night. And, as you can see from the picture, our children, Rebekah, 3, and Luke, 1, love helping to make it — and eat it! I really like this recipe as well since the leftovers freeze just like store bought ice cream—not icy. As a family, we prefer the cookies and cream.

This recipe and more than 250 others can be found in Moyer Family Cookbook that I had published last year. It sells for $6 plus $3 for postage and handling and is available through me at R.R. 1, Box 70-4, Andreas, PA 18211-9739. (717) 386-2568.

Presently, I am starting another business called, Taylor Personalized Products. Through TPP, a person can purchase personalized cards, posters, 11 different types of calendars, and get all her loose recipes organized in a cookbook.

Shelly M. Taylor
Andreas

Rebekah, 3, and Luke, 2, made ice cream. They are Taylor of Andreas.

QUESTION — Julia Rissler, Mohnton, would like Sue Barton books by Helen D. Boylston, especially Sue Barton, Superintendent of Nurses. Call (717) 484-0515, or write to Julia at 448 Orchard Rd., Mohnton, PA 19540.

QUESTION — George Rousis, Bally, hopes to move to the Midwest or Montana in a few years. He'd like to know how to find out weather temperature highs and lows, rainfall, and snowfall for the individual states during the past 10 years.

QUESTION — Jenny Palovitch of Lancaster County would like to purchase a wrought iron bench that wraps around a tree. It may be new or used.

VEGETABLE PIZZA

2 refrigerator packages of crescent rolls

Press together dough sections to spread on 15x10-inch cookie sheet. Bake at 350 degrees for 10 minutes. Cover with the following mixture:

8-ounces cream cheese
1 package Hidden Valley dressing mix

Mix together salad dressing, cream cheese, and dressing. Spread on crust when cooled. Cut fine and scatter on top:

PASTA PIZZA

5 ounces (2 cups) dried corkscrew macaroni
1 beaten egg
¼ cup milk
2 tablespoons grated parmesan cheese
8 ounces ground beef
1 small onion (chopped) about ⅓ cup
½ teaspoon minced garlic
16 ounces spaghetti sauce
½ teaspoon Italian seasoning
4 ounces sliced mushrooms
1 cup shredded mozzarella cheese (4 ounces)

Cook pasta per directions on package. Drain, rinse, and drain again.

For pasta cruist, combine egg, milk, and parmesan cheese. Stir in pasta. Spread mixture evenly in 12-inch pizza pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 20 minutes.

Meanwhile, brown ground beef, onion, and garlic. Drain fat. Add sauce, Italian seasoning, and mushrooms. Simmer.

Spoon meat mixture over pizza crust. Sprinkle with mozzarella cheese. Bake for 10-12 minutes or until cheese is melted. Cut into wedges. Makes 6 servings.

We run a campground, and this is a quick supper to put together. I use low fat cheese, skim milk, and only egg whites to reduce the fat.

Sometimes you don't have time to get a big meal and cold food isn't fun to eat. So the pizza can be reheated quickly in a microwave oven, also.

QUESTION — Several years ago, Harold R. Stoudt of Hamburg purchased aluminum-clad electric fence wire by direct shipment from South Star Industries in Tenn. The dealer discontinued his business. Does anyone know of the company or one that sells similar high quality aluminum clad maleable steel wire? It did not recoil when unspooled and could be hand spliced.

QUESTION — A Lehighton reader would like to know the market price for goose and duck eggs.

QUESTION — Marian Mosemann, Summit Hill, would like to know where to purchase gift boxes for jellies and breads. Candy boxes are too small.

ANSWER — Marian Mosemann, Summit Hill, wanted the paper puzzles that were sometimes given away by the John Deere tractor franchises. Thanks to Esther Miller. Coatsville, who calls herself a John Deere fan, for answering. She writes that the source for the puzzles is Farm Art USA, P.O. Box 1947, Greely, CO 80632-1947. One must send $2 for the catalogue, the $2 will be applied to the first order.

ANSWER — Scott Strosnider of Stephens City, Va., wanted information on old marbles and also where marbles can be purchased in large amounts. Thanks to Marvin Bucher, who writes that 50 marbles for $3 may be purchased from Hancock Importing Inc., San Antonio, Texas 78219. (Note to Marvin: You also had a morning glory seeds for sale, but you did not include your address. Please send your address immediately.)

ANSWER — Florence Fisher, Etters, wanted to know what to do to keep pigeons off a tin roof. Thanks to Marvin Bucher who writes that he raised homing pigeons for 26 years. The trick to keep them off the roof is to fasten a rag doll, cat or plastic owl on the roof. A few years ago, a cat got in the loft and the pigeons were so scared that they didn't return for five days after the cat was removed.

ANSWER — E. Walsh from Auburn wanted the name and phone number of a business that sells round pens for training horses. Thanks to Connie Nesteruk, Perkasie, who writes that the business name is Priefert Mfg. Co., Mt. Pleasant, TX. (1-800-527-8616). The company supplies portable corral panels for nationally known trainer Tom Lyons. Priefert has local distributors such as Central Tractor Farm and Supply in Quakertown. To figure the number of panels needed, multiply the diameter of the pen (60 feet) by 3.14 to get the circumference. Divide circumference by panel length to be used (10 or 12 feet) to get the number of panels. The odd figure you'll get allows for a gate or for one or two shorter panels to keep the correct diameter.

ANSWER — Anna Grace Moore, Cochranville, wanted to know how to make crafts with Christmas and birthday cards. Thanks to Margaret Diamond, Kunkletown for sending instructions for a bowl. They are too long to print in the paper. Anna Grace, please send your complete address and we will mail the instructions to you. Also, thanks to Leora Petet. She will send a free book with many patterns if Anna Grace sends her complete address to Leora at R.D 1, Box 245, Hollsopple, PA 15935.

ANSWER — Betty Bixler, Marietta, had asked for a copy of "Country Woman." She writes that she received seven copies. She is surprised and amused by this response, but does not need any more copies, thank you

Free Food For All Dairy Farmers

We hear you.

Like most aspects of farming, baling has changed dramatically over the last 20 years. Once it involved rounding up a bunch of kids to load wagons; slowly, it has evolved into the era of one man and big round bales. And now, in response to your requests, this evolution continues.

With continued improvements, the Case IH 8570 mid-sized rectangular baler and its big brother, the 8580 large rectangular baler, make baling more convenient than ever. Both are proof that we do indeed hear you.

These machines produce a bale size and weight up to 1,000 lbs. for the 8570 and 2,200 lbs. for the 8580 that's easy to stack, store, transport and feed.

Formed with easy-separating flakes, these bales can be fed by hand, processed, or pulled apart by livestock. They're tight and dense for handling and shipping ease. And thanks to the design of the 8500 Series balers, they're packed with nutrition.

A wide, low-profile pickup reduces the loss of valuable leaves, while the pre-packer chamber keeps nutrients contained within the bale. And each pre-formed flake is exceptionally uniform in size and weight.

The Case IH 8570 and 8580 rectangular balers. You asked for an evolution in baling, and we heard you. Find out more from your Case IH dealer today.

And ask about Total Product Support. It's the commitment that ensures the performance and overall value of every Case IH product.

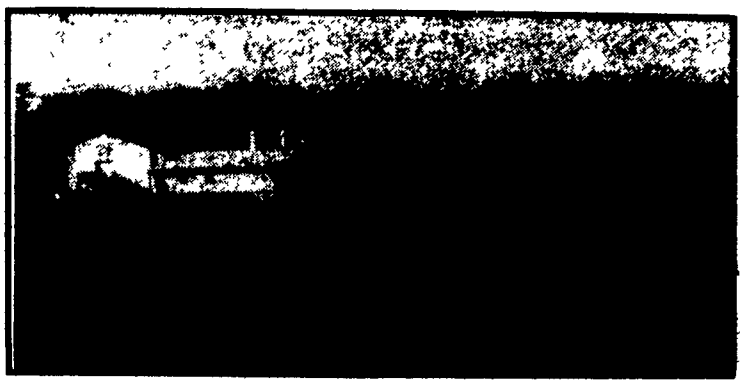
on their all new 125,280 Layer CHORE-TIME Cage System with CHORE-TIME Ultraflo Feeding System

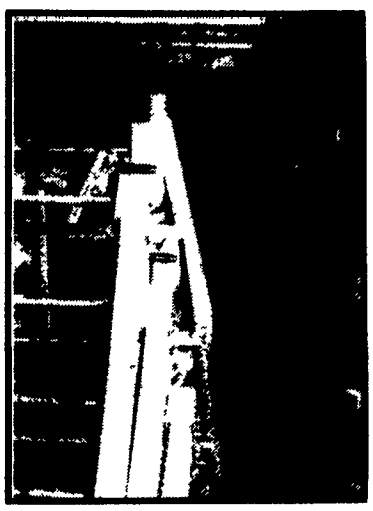


54'-8" x 612' High rise building with 36' x 60' egg packing and cooler room. Building features brown-out inlet hood and treated lumber decks at bird load out doors.

Chore-Time 4 high Duracage installed with plywood walkways between cage rows. Continuous 2 x 4 step rails and cart guides installed on heavy galvanized brackets protect cages and allow easy access to top tier.

Chore-Time rubber finger collectors with variable speed control system have no extra transfers. Eggs stay on the egg belt until they reach the cross conveyor.

Val 45 degree nipple drinking system keeps nipple out of cage without using wire stands. Chore-Time Duracage features heavy two piece construction and optional push in doors. Ultraflo feeding system saves feed and improves performance because of high speed delivery (80 feet per minute) and high lip trough. When feeders run birds do not pick over feed to select corn and birds can not rake and pile feed when feeder stops.



Triply ceiling is smooth and washable. Modern Ag perimeter inlets with stainless steel hinges are installed with control rod mounted on the wall below the inlets. Because the rod stays at the same temperature it does not grow and shrink like it would if installed behind the inlet. This helps keep the inlet adjusted when outside temperature changes.

OTHER FEATURES:

1. Diamond 100 CPH Farm Packer with Automatic Flats Stacker
2. Egg Cart Hoist
3. CHORE TIME Weigh Bin System
4. CHORE TIME Dual 90 Feed Screener and Fill System

National Holstein Convention Set With Full Schedule

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — Tours exploring Pennsylvania Holstein operations in Somerset County, shopping, visiting new areas, such as neighborhood corners of different cultures, sales, food, entertainment, and of course, conducting Holstein business are just a portion of the lineup scheduled to be offered to those participating in the National Holstein Convention set to be held in Pittsburgh June 25-28.

It's been almost 30 years since Pennsylvania — the fifth largest dairy state in the nation — served as host of the national convention. For many the experience is a once-in-a lifetime chance to actually attend a national convention.

While the official convention is scheduled to start June 25, attendees are expected to arrive at convention headquarters at the David L. Lawrence Convention Center as early as June 22.

On Friday, June 23, an Executive Committee meeting is scheduled to be held during the day.

For those not attending the meeting, there are numerous activities in the Pittsburgh area to enjoy and places to explore, from shopping centers to golf courses, restaurants and specialty food markets, to watching a performance of Man of LaMancha or enjoying highly rated fishing for bass in once polluted waters.

For those who had read or heard about a possible three-day early farm tour that was to bring conventioners into southcentral Pennsylvania, it was officially cancelled because of a lack of sufficient indicated interest, according to Sue Beshore.

However, the convention is full of exciting events.

Registration doesn't started until Saturday afternoon from 1 p.m. to 10 p.m., but a national Board of Directors meeting is scheduled to be held during the day.

In the evening, from 5:30 p.m. to 7 p.m., the Past President's Dinner Theater and Show is scheduled to be held in the Allegheny Room.

The next morning, Sunday, from 6:30-8 a.m., a Past/Future Convention Chairman breakfast meeting is scheduled to be held for those interested, while registration starts at 7:30 a.m. and runs until 10 p.m.

A tour of Somerset County farms is scheduled to start at 8 a.m. and visit four operations. The tour is scheduled to end about 4:30 p.m.

According to a news release, "Somerset County is known as the 'Land of Milk and Maple' because of its large dairy and traditional maple syrup industries."

The tour is to feature visits at Perkline Holsteins, Mishlin Holsteins, Carrdale Holsteins and Hillmont Holsteins.

According to the news release that contained statements from the farms about their own operations, at Berkline Holsteins, emphasis is on cow families that transmit type and production.

Functional type is sought with a strong emphasis on udders, feet and legs when selecting a mate.

"We use AAA and our classification breakdowns when choosing our matings. Herd health is very important to us. We strongly believe that you can breed for type, production, and protein as well as keeping the indexes progressing with the service sires that are available to us as breeders."

The statement from Mishlin Holsteins explains that their breeding philosophy is simple.

"First and foremost, we must have a top type bull that excels in superior stature, strenghth, and thurl width.

"Once we have the framework there, we focus on breeding for outstanding udders with excellent udder clearance.

"As far as feet and legs go, we never really bred for that but instead felt that management of the cows played a more critical role. Keeping the calves and heifers on concrete, instead of a manure pack seemed to have kept our troubles limited.

"As far as milk and components go, the results we got from using the high type bulls were very pleasing to us."

At Carrdale Holsteins, the breeding strategy is also somewhat similar.

"We try to breed cows with correct functional type that are also a pleasure to look at and work with throughout the year."

The use a combination of the Red Book and AAA to select sires and try to mate cows to the more popular bulls, though not necessarily the best industry rated bulls.

Like some other successful breeders, Hillmont Holsteins is attempting to breed multiple generation Excellent cows with a good index and good show-ring qualities.

While that is the dream of many, the statement from Hillmont is, "It takes a very strong cow family to do that. The most important things is to match the bull and cow to the best of your ability. It helps to get several opinions.

"In staying up with the index system, we find ourselves flushing our virgin heifers to the newest hot sire or even a young sire. I can't stress enough, the importance of cow family."

More details on the farms and the farm owners will be presented during the tours.

Also on Sunday, those interested in previewing the consignments for the convention sale can start looking at 1 p.m. in Level 2 of the convention center.

Also scheduled is a SET meetnig, a dairy bar from 1-4 p.m., and a Breeders's Majority meeting.

The official start of the convention is to occur 6:15 p.m. Sunday evening, June 25 with the President's Reception. The event is to honor President John Selz.

The reception is to feature a buffet dinner followed by entertainment by the 24-voice Mendelssohn Chorus, a group that has performed internationally and is in its 86th season.

Monday is Host Day. A walk in the morning to the Pittsburgh Market Bazaar from 6 a.m. to 8 a.m. is scheduled with a return just in time to catch two Host Day tours being offered.

The Cultural Pittsuburgh Tour is to stop at the Carnegie Museum of Natural History, the Stephen Fos-

A PROFILE OF THREE RECENT PENN STATE POULTRY SCIENCE GRADUATES

William D. Weaver, Jr.
Professor And Head

In an article a year or two ago, I outlined the many opportunities awaiting graduates in poultry science once they have completed their degree.

Today I would like to introduce you to three of our 1995 graduates, tell you something about their backgrounds, and briefly describe their new careers in the poultry industry.

Ed Hoffman

Ed Hoffman is a native of Watsontown in Northumberland County, where he was raised on his parents poultry (table eggs) farm. Ed chose a career path somewhat different than most students today as he spent four years on active duty in the Army prior to enrolling at Penn State University. He credits those four years for maturing and making him a more serious student, which must have worked as Ed achieved the highest grade point average of any student in the major each of the last two years.

Between his junior and senior years, Ed participated in a summer internship with Arbor Acres Farms, Inc. in Glastonbury, Conn. Arbor Acres is a large international genetics company that produces and markets broiler breeder parent stock.

Based on Ed's excellent experience with Arbor Acres and the company's satisfaction with his performance, Ed has accepted a position with Arbor Acres after graduation. In his new position he will initially be involved with managing the many sire and dam lines maintained by the company. However, in the future, as he gains experience, Ed will most certainly have opportunities to travel both nationally and internationally with Arbor Acres.

Doug Metzler

Doug Metzler was raised on a farm in Lancaster County. When asked how he became interested in poultry science (Doug's family did not raise poultry), he attributed the decision to an early course at Penn State that presented the many opportunities available for employment and careers in the poultry industry. Once the decision was made to enroll in poultry science, Doug never looked back as he became totally involved in the major and all of its surroundings.

In addition to his coursework, he became active in the Poultry Science Club (which, by the way, was voted "Club of the Year" twice at the International Poultry Exposition in Atlanta, Ga. during his membership), serving as its president during his senior year. Doug was also a multiyear resident at the Poultry Research Farm, a privilege offered only a few students each year.

Doug, like Ed Hoffman, participated in a summer internship. In Doug's case, he interned two summers with Wampler-Longacre, Inc., a large economically integrated regional (Pennsylvania, Virginia, West Virginia, and North Carolina) broiler and turkey company. He spent his first sumer as a service trainee with market turkeys at the New Oxford, Pa. complex (formerly Round Hills Foods, Inc.) and his second summer at the home office in Harrisonburg, Va., where he trained in the hatchery and with turkey breeders.

As with most of the Poultry Science students, Doug interviewed with several companies during his senior year (and received several offers), but as has been true in many instances, he chose employment with the company where he interned; in this case, Wampler-Longacre, Inc. Doug is located at the New Oxford complex where he is in training to become a flock supervisor.

Brian Sensenich

Brian Sensenich, also a resident of Lancaster County, became interested in poultry science while a student at the Penn State Berks Campus. It should be noted that most students spend one year and many spend two years at one of the Commonwealth Campuses located through Pennsylvania, prior to enrolling at Penn State University Park.

Brian's interest in poultry science was heightened while at the Berks Campus, when he participated in a training program with a poultry feed sales and service representative with a large poultry and livestock company in Lancaster.

After transferring to the University Park Campus at the beginning of his junior year, Brian became involved in a number of curricular and extracurricular activities associated with poultry science. He, like both Ed and Doug, participated in a summer internship after his junior year. But, unlike the other two, Brian chose another employer, Dutch Country Eggs in Lebanon County, after being interviewed prior to graduation by several potential employers.

Brian's first assignment with Dutch Country Eggs will involve helping develop and initiate the company's revised fly control program and the recently legislated nutrient management program.

With many fields in and outside of agriculture experiencing difficult employment opportunities, employment in the poultry industry has never been better. The undergraduate experiences and the recent employments of Ed Hoffman, Doug Metzler, and Brain Sensenich typifies those of many of our recent graduates and points out the many and varied career opportunities in the large poultry industry.

Herbicide Labeled For Application

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has granted a label for Monsanto's popular Roundup herbicide to allow it to be sprayed over Roundup Ready soybeans during the growing season.

Roundup Ready soybeans, in development for more than a decade, are like other soybeans except that they are tolerant to Roundup.

"This new application for Roundup will allow farmers to conserve time, resources and energy while reducing the overall cost of producing soybeans," said Arnold W. Donald, president, Monsanto's Crop Protection business unit.

Approval of the revised label for Roundup herbicide was the final U.S. regulatory step necessary to make Roundup Ready soybean seed available to growers. The U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) and the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) completed their evaluations in 1994.

Roundup Ready soybeans will offer growers a new weed control option with a herbicide known for its effectiveness against a broad spectrum of weeds as well as for its favorable environmental characteristics.

"Monsanto will recommend an in-crop application of 24 to 32 ounces per acre to control most weed species," said Doug Dorsey, soybean market manager for Monsanto.

"Wide-row soybeans may require a sequential application of 16 to 24 ounces per acre," Dorsey said. "Growers will have a wide window of application, from cracking through full flowering. Research shows that no residual or tank mixtures will be needed."

In no-till systems, growers still should apply a regular burndown treatment of Roundup prior to planting.

Apple Marketers Profit From Joint Venture

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.)—Agriculture Secretary Charles C. Brosius applauded Pennsylvania apple marketers for cooperating in the effort to provide fresh "Eastern Select" brand apples for the Washington, D.C./Baltimore area.

Apple marketing boards in Pennsylvania, Virginia, Maryland and West Virginia initiated the joint marketing effort two years ago as a vehicle for getting locally grown apples into the Washington, D.C. and Baltimore stores.

"Sales of Eastern Select apples have been outstanding," Brosius said. "By working together with apple marketing programs in neighboring states, our farmers have increased their share of the fresh apple market in Baltimore and Washington, D.C."

"By joining together, we have been able to implement a very effective promotion in this major East Coast market. Consumers want the freshest, highest quality apples available and that's what they're getting with Eastern Select," said Kay Hollabaugh, chair of the Pennsylvania Apple Marketing Board.

Apples carrying the Eastern Select brand trademark exceed the U.S. Extra Fancy guidelines in terms of color and must show at least 75 percent color on all red varieties. In addition, they must be at least two-and-one-half inches in diameter.

Figures released by grocery chains involved in the fall promotion of Eastern Select apples show that, over a two-week period, Giant Food, Inc. sold more than 21,000 boxes or 882,000 pounds of Eastern Select apples, and Safeway, Inc. sold 14,500 boxes or 609,000 pounds.

The stores carried Eastern Select from September through December. In addition to Giant and Safeway stores, growers hope to expand the number of stores that carry the Eastern Select brand in the Washington/Baltimore areas this year.

Clark Re-Elected MAEF President

BALTIMORE, Md. — Martha Clark of Glenelg, Md. was re-elected as president of the Maryland Agricultural Education Foundation (MAEF).

Clark has served on the board of directors since 1989, when MAEF was created. Clark has been president of MAEF for the past two years.

MAEF is a private nonprofit organization that promotes and enhances understanding and appreciation of the importance of agriculture in our daily lives. Clark is a farmer who is involved in agriculture leadership in Maryland Farm Bureau, Howard County Farm Bureau, and Maryland Association of Soil Conservation Districts.

Clark commented on her re-election, "The Foundation has made great strides over the past five years and I look forward to more progress in the year ahead. The board of directors has adopted an aggressive and challenging agenda and increased its commitment to expanding our presence in the educational community."

The other officers elected at the MAEF board meeting were Gary Deverman, vice president; Vaughn Bradley, treasurer; and Merl Miller, secretary.

Product Designed For Rusted Metal

PORTAGE, Mich. — A paint product made from coal and applied directly to rust penetrates straight through to the metal, is guaranteed for seven years, and works on any rusted metal on the farm.

Rustover®, from Rustover® Paint Company, is applied with a coarse 8-inch wallpaper paste brush and fills holes as large as ¼ inch in diameter in one application. The product, according to the manufacturer, will save metal roofs and, in some cases, the buildings themselves.

Rustover®, a black primer, not only covers the rust, but is absorbed by it. It penetrates through to the metal. Its absorbing effect stops rust dead in its tracks.

More than 17 years ago, the product was applied to a rusted tank without scraping, sandblasting, or wire brushing and still looks almost as good as when it was first covered with Rustover®. It is approved on rusted metal only and comes in black only. The product takes color excellently — color may be applied after a two-week curing period.

For more information, contact Rustover® Paint Company, 516 Calico Avenue, Portage, MI 49002, (616) 327-0183.

Row Mulcher Eliminates Hand Labor

BIRD-IN-HAND (Lancaster Co.) — The new Millcreek Row Mulcher applies wood chips, compost, and other types of spreadable mulch to row crops such as berries and grapes in a 24-inch wide row pattern.

Designed to eliminate hand labor for applying organic mulch, the Millcreek Row Mulcher comes in three sizes, 3 cubic yards, 4.5 cubic yards, and 6.8 cubic yards. It is PTO operated.

The Millcreek Row Mulcher allows operators to stay about one and a half feet from the base of plants during application to avoid plant damage. The two smaller models are 62 inches wide to fit comfortably between most rows. The largest capacity model is 80 inches wide.

Millcreek additionally builds custom row mulchers for specialized applications.

Swine '95 Study To Examine Changes

The USDA developed the National Animal Health Monitoring System (NAHMS) in the 1980s to provide data to support animal industry research and marketing efforts that help producers accomplish these and other goals. NAHMS collects data directly from the farm through national studies involving a random sample of operations that are selected to represent the national animal population.

The first NAHMS national study was the 1990 National Swine Survey. This May, the program began its second study of the pork industry with the Swine '95: Grower/Finisher. The Swine '95 study will identify changes since 1990 in management practices in all production phases, then concentrate on animal health and management in the grower/finisher phase.

Though NAHMS' first charge is to develop a national data base, study benefits begin with the individual participants.

"Producers that contributed data during our first national study told us they got a lot out of seeing where they fell in relation to other operations and in identifying weak areas and potential improvements," said Dr. Eric Bush, NAHMS swine commodity specialist. "We expect to deliver the same benefits for the Swine '95 producers."

In an evaluation following the 1989-1990 study, 90 percent of the producers said they would recommend participation in the program to other producers. An overwhelming percentage was confident that the program would benefit the swine industry as a whole, a concept reflected by the volume of data that have been applied to research and educational projects.

"Seeing data put to use from the 1990 survey has been exciting," said Dr. Bush. "Some of the highlights have been in use of a serum bank to research transmissible gastroenteritis (TGE), porcine reproductive and respiratory virus (PRRS), and toxoplasmosis. Legislators have used water quality results to determine need for regulations, and universities and the National Pork Producers' Council have applied various topics to their research work."

For more information on NAHMS and NAHMS studies, contact USDA:APHIS:VS, Centers for Epidemiology and Animal Health, Attn. NAHMS, 500 South Howes, Fort Collins, CO 80521, (970) 490-7800.

FEED FOR PORK OR MANURE

We often think of the hog industry as an efficient user of inputs. But of the nutrients consumed by growing-finishing pigs, less than half are deposited in the carcass as tissue gain. The rest drop through the slats.

The good news is that with little or no impact on hog performance, nutrient excretion can be reduced. This obviously saves on feed costs and reduces the nutrients in the waste stream.

Nitrogen

We feed nitrogen to crops in the form of nitrates, ammonium, or urea. We feed nitrogen to pigs in the form of protein or amino acids.

To calculate how much nitrogen is in the feed, divide the protein percentage by 6.25. A 14 percent crude protein diet contains about 2.25 percent nitrogen.

With a little work, we can estimate the nitrogen balance in the pig. We measure the amount of nitrogen consumed and the amount excreted in the manure (both urine and feces). The difference between these two numbers is the amount the body retains for conversion to tissue or proteins.

If we apply that balance data to a 1,000-head finishing barn, we find a staggering amount of nitrogen flowing through the system (Table 1).

Table 1: Annual Nitrogen Flow in a 1000-Head Growing Finishing Barn

Intake, tons:	18.3
Retained, tons:	7.1
Excreted, tons:	11.2

Of the more than 18 tons of nitrogen consumed, only 7.1 are retained by the pigs. More than 11 tons (61 percent) that was once part of the feed is now part of the manure. These estimates are based on the following assumptions (Table 2).

Table 2: Assumptions

Number of pigs:	1000
Feed intake per pig:	600 lb
Weight gain per pig:	200 lb
Crude protein, grower:	16.5%
Crude protein, finisher:	14.0%
Number of groups/barn/yr:	2.6

Note that these pigs have an efficient feed conversion (3:1). For pigs that are less efficient, the nitrogen waste is even higher.

A simple economical way for reducing nitrogen excretion is through the use of lysine-HCl. You can remove 100 pounds of soybean meal in each ton of feed and replace it with 96.5 pounds of corn and 3.5 pounds of lysine-HCl. This reduces crude protein about 2 percentage units, with no change in performance or carcass traits.

What will it cost to make the change? At current market prices, 100 pounds of soybean meal costs $10, 96.5 pounds of corn costs $5.16, and 3.5 pounds of lysine-HCl will cost $3.50. So the total for the corn + lysine is $8.66. This is significantly less than the $10 you'd pay for the equivalent amount of soybean meal. (Normally, the price comparison is closer to break-even.)

Besides cost, a second benefit is a 20 percent decrease in the amount of nitrogen flowing through the system (Table 3).

Table 3: Annual nitrogen flow, using lysine-HCl in a 1000-head finishing barn.

Intake, tons:	16.1
Retained, tons:	7.1
Excreted, tons:	9.0

Phosphorus

Pigs require less phosphorus than we feed them. The problem is something called phytate — a phosphorus compound found in most grains. Unfortunately this type of phosphorus is not digested by the pig, so we have to oversupplement with inorganic phosphorus.

Phosphorus, unlike nitrogen, does not leach away, so the level of soil phosphorus tends to go up with every load of manure.

Table 4: Annual Phosphorus Flow in a 1000-Head Growing Finishing Barn (.6 percent dietary phosphorus).

Intake, tons:	4.7
Retained, tons:	1.3
Excreted, tons:	3.4

If we dropped the dietary phosphorus to .5 percent, we'd still be above the NRC recommendation (.4 percent), but the amount excreted decreases by ¾ of a ton (Table 5):

Table 5: Annual Phosphorus Flow in a 1000-Head Growing Finishing Barn (.5 percent dietary phosphorus).

Intake, tons:	3.9
Retained, tons:	1.2
Excreted, tons:	2.7

A compound that will enable further reductions in dietary phosphorus is phytase. This enzyme, when added to the diet, releases the phosphorus from phytate.

It comes in several forms, none of which has received approval for swine diets in this country. Hopefully, a swine label will be soon coming, as this can reduce phosphorus excretion in our example by another half a ton per year.

Copper

Environmental concerns related to copper in swine feeds are not new. Pigs require less than 20 parts per million (ppm) of dietary copper for normal growth and production. However, many starter diets and even some grower diets contain as much as 250 ppm of copper as a growth promotant.

Since the retention of copper is already low, 95 percent of copper when fed at a 250 ppm rate will be excreted. Under those conditions, copper levels in manure will generally range from 1,000 to 2,000 ppm on a dry matter basis.

What implications does this have for crop production? One group of researchers in Virginia applied manure to the same fields for eight years, resulting in a total copper loading of 235 pounds/acre. This treatment had no effect on corn yields or copper concentrations in the grain. Other studies have produced similar results.

But there are precautions regarding the application manure that is high in trace minerals. First, the pH should be over 6.5. Plants tend to absorb metals more readily under conditions of low pH. Second, leafy vegetables are more apt to accumulate metals than are row crops. And finally, sheep are sensitive to high levels of copper. Copper poisoning has been reported when sheep grazed pastures in which swine manure was applied.

Zinc

Zinc is normally added to the diet at the rate of 200 ppm or less. However, recent reports show that pigs can benefit from higher levels.

According to a recent review in Feedstuffs, Danish scientists first reported a reduction in post-weaning scours through the addition of 2,500 ppm zinc. Researchers at the University of Illinois reported 16 percent increase in weight gain by feeding 3,000 ppm of zinc for two weeks post weaning.

Kansas State University reported that 3,100 ppm of zinc resulted in occasional improvements in diarrhea and feed efficiency. Researchers at Michigan State University saw a trend for improved growth rate by feeding 3,000 ppm of zinc to weanling pigs.

Despite these benefits, it is doubtful that zinc will be used at pharmacological levels to the same extent that copper is. The response is less consistent and short-lived.

Also, zinc interferes with iron, copper, and calcium when fed at high levels and for more than two weeks. And according to Penn State Agronomist Doug Beegle, high zinc levels in the soil have detrimental effects on plant growth.

Chromium

Chromium is an essential element, but the amounts found in normal ingredients eliminate the need for supplementation.

Now it is reported that extra chromium may benefit performance. Research at Louisiana State showed that 200 ppb of chromium (in the form of picolinate) increased loin muscle area 7-22 percent, and reduced 10th rib fat 14-22 percent.

A study at Kansas State University showed that 200 ppb of chromium (as nicotinate) reduced fat depth by .1 inch. Chromium, like copper and zinc, is a trace element. While generally considered no more toxic than that of copper or zinc, chromium toxicity may depend upon the form.

For example, 1,000 ppm is considered the maximum tolerable dietary level for chromium chloride. This is 1,250 times higher than the 800 ppb of chromium (as picolinate) found to impair performance in the Louisiana studies.

The environmental effects of feeding chromium as picolinate or nicotinate are unknown.

Summary

1. Manure handling took on new significance when we began to call it nutrient management. The new term implies that we must know what is in the manure, what is in the soil, and what the crop requires.

2. As nutrient management plans become standard practice for swine producers, the challenge will not only be to handle nutrients effectively, but to reduce nutrients in the waste stream.

3. Nitrogen excretion can be decreased by 20 percent, without changing hog performance, by simply by using lysine-HCl. Phosphorus excretion may be reduced in oversupplemented grower-finisher diets (more than .55 percent) by decreasing phosphorus levels to .45 or .50 percent.

4. Be cautious when using copper, zinc, or chromium at pharmacological doses. Unlike other feed additives that are metabolized to harmless forms, trace minerals are stable. Little if any of the excess is retained by the pig, which means all the extra dietary dose ends up in the manure.

5. The critical area for proper formulation is in the finishing stage. Pigs in this phase of production have the highest feed intakes and therefore produce the most manure.

Animal Health Product Sales Top $3 Billion

ALEXANDRIA, Va.—Total sales of U.S. animal health products were estimated to be $3.1 billion in 1994, representing a 10 percent increase from the 1993 figure of $2.8 billion. These figures were projected by the Animal Health Institute as part of its 1994 Domestic Net Sales Survey.

AHI represents manufacturers of animal health products—the pharmaceuticals, vaccines, and feed additives used in modern food production, and the medicines that keep pets healthy.

AHI conducts its sales survey annually. Sales are reported in three major products categories—pharmaceuticals, feed additives, and biologicals.

Sales totals for the United States are based on projections made by AHI's Market Research Committee using sales data AHI collected from its member companies. Sales are for products priced at the manufacturer's level.

A summary of the sales data in the three major product categories follows:

•Pharmaceuticals: Pharmaceutical sales increased by 11 percent in 1994. Projected sales in this category for 1994 were $1,936.5 million and the 1993 total was $1,738 million. This product category covers the sales of dosage form medicines and other pharmaceutical preparations used in disease prevention and treatment programs for both food-producing animals and pets.

•Feed Additives: Feed additive sales increased approximately 12.5 percent in 1994, with projected sales of $667.7 million. 1993 sales were $593.3 million. This category includes sales for all feed additives—with the exception of nutritionals—used in livestock and poultry production, including those used to control or prevent disease, enhance growth, or improve feed efficiency.

•Biologicals: Sales in this category increased approximately 1.5 percent in 1994, with projected sales of $466.5 million. In 1993, this figure was $458.9 million. This product category covers the sales of products used to create immunity to disease in both livestock and pets. Biologicals include vaccines, bacterins, and antitoxins licensed by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service.

In collecting data for the 1994 Domestic Net Sales Survey, it was necessary for AHI to revise previously published 1993 survey data to more accurately reflect the 1993 market.

Junior Grange Receives Grant

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.)—Agriculture Secretary Charles C. Brosius announced the Pennsylvania State Junior Grange of Harrisburg, Dauphin County has been awarded a $2,500 direct grant through the department's Agriculture and Rural Youth Organization Grant Program.

The grant will be used to prepare and implement rural-urban family organization workshops addressing agricultural issues statewide throughout the year.

The objective of the program is to help more than 800 junior Grangers between 5 and 14 years old develop an awareness of the issues facing the agricultural and rural communities.

The program is intended to make the next generation more aware of environmental issues, to help them develop cooperation and concern for others, and to give them a better understanding of agriculture's scope in the world.

Under the Agriculture and Rural Youth Organization Grant Program, youth organizations such as 4-H and FFA apply for direct grants of up to $2,500 and matching grants of up to $15,000.

PLANNING FOR 1995 FEED STORAGE...
WILTED HAY...SILAGE...HI-MOISTURE GRAINS

"This is the kind of silo you need to protect your valuable feed."

"The major costs on dairy and livestock farms are related to FEED: production - harvesting - storage - purchases - delivery to animals."

Significant savings in time and money are possible when you store and deliver your forage from a poured concrete silo, equipped with a Big Jim Distributor/ Unloader.

Protect your valuable forages from rain, sleet, snow, mud, ice and wind. Reduce the stress! Increase the efficiency of your feeds, labor, and livestock.

At SOLLENBERGER SILOS CORP. we know a lot about feed storage and handling... we've been in the business since 1908. If you are thinking about new or additional feed storage, give us a call. We'd like to contribute to your success.

"Charlie's new lagoon pump sure is fast!"
"That's because it's one of those new Van Dale 5000s."

Fast and powerful only begins to describe Van Dale's new line of Series 5000 Lagoon Pumps. The Series 5000 has the perfect combo of agitation volume and pressure to break up hard surface crust or bottom manure solids in even the largest lagoons or pits. And with up to 5,000 G.P.M. agitation capacity it can blast a stream of manure 100' or more in any direction to create easy to pump and easy to spread slurry. They are by far, the fastest and easiest operating pumps on the market.

THE VAN DALE ADVANTAGE

Series 5000 3-Point Hitch Model
For use in straight and sloped wall open manure pits. Built with the same ruggedness as Van Dale's trailer lagoon pumps, it also shares the same high performance features

Side with Alumax ALU-TUFF Steel

When you put up a building, you expect it to be attractive and to last. A building constructed with ALU-TUFF will meet those expectations. That's because ALU-TUFF is made using top-quality materials, super-tough protective coatings, and a unique rib design that's both functional and attractive.

Years from now when other buildings are starting to show their age, your building will still look good.

- A STRONG PROFILE High 3/4-inch ribs on nine-inch centers give ALU-TUFF exceptionally high spanning properties for its weight and thickness, while stiffening ribs in flat areas prevent rippling.
- MADE TO LAST To keep Alu-Tuff working hard and looking good for years to come, we protect it with an oven-cured system of four different coatings.
- A GREAT LOOKING PANEL You don't have to sacrifice good looks to get a tough steel panel.
- MORE QUALITY FEATURES Each ALU-TUFF sheet is 38 inches wide to provide 36-inch coverage. That's wide enough to minimize the number of side laps, yet narrow enough to be easy to handle.

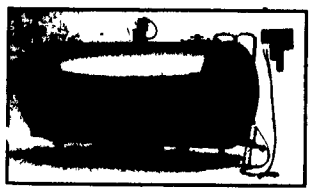
DAIRY FARM EQUIPMENT

Scroll-Compressor Technology

New in 1994



You may pay less for some dairy farm equipment... but it can cost you more!

Equipment costs are not the only cost of cooling milk

In the long run, total operating costs of a Mueller milk-cooling system are generally substantially less than those of "bargain-brand" milk-cooling equipment.

Example	Mueller	Competition
Cost of equipment	$31 000	$28 000
Cost of electricity @ .08 kW for 12 000 lbs milk/day for 10 years	$17 550	$22 850
Total operating cost for ten years	$48 550	$50 850
Savings	$ 2 300

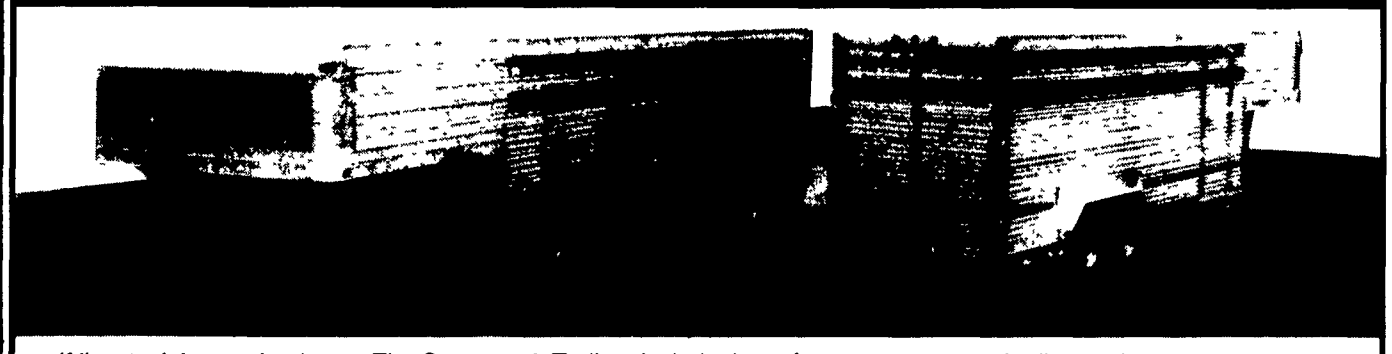
Anything Less Isn't Good Enough



If livestock is your business, Eby Gooseneck Trailers include these features to protect the livestock you transport:

- Durable all-aluminum construction with less weight for more payload
- Axles, wheels, tires and brakes that are designed to carry the weight the trailer will hold
- Gates and doors designed for easy loading/unloading
- Proven post and slat design to control airflow and easily close up for winter conditions
- Aerodynamic design to improve fuel economy

Eby Gooseneck Trailers are available in lengths from 12 to 32 feet with a choice of widths and inside heights. We offer every custom option, including stainless steel front end for great looks.

Whatever kind of livestock you transport, you can rely on EBY products to do the job right.

Join the Gehl Round Baler Revolution

Gehl's Total Density Control balers preserve feed quality while delivering more material in every bale. You save time with fewer bales to make, move, store and feed. Plus you can easily custom-build bales to match crop and moisture conditions for maximum nutrient value.

Gehl's simple design uses "airdraulics", a combination of air pressure and hydraulic pressure, to control bale formation. This efficient design requires less horsepower while delivering sure, fast starts in a wide variety of crops and conditions, so you keep moving.

Choose the electrically operated dual twine wrap system or Gehl's Quick-Wrap option. Quick-Wrap covers more surface area for a more complete wrap with less leaf loss and better weatherability.

You're in complete control with Gehl's new Electronic Bale Control System. With it's digital screen and audible alarm you'll monitor every baling function while maintaining total control.

Delaware Re-Establishes Extension Advisory

NEWARK, Del. — Delaware Cooperative Extension relies on volunteers to help extend outreach programs to the public.

Now another volunteer group — the State Advisory Council — will help Dr. Richard E. Fowler, director fo Delaware Cooperative Extension, and Dr. John C. Nye, dean of the College of Agricultural Sciences at the University of Delaware, promote extension programs on agriculture, youth development at the University of Delaware, food and gardening education and family support to Delaware's citizens and decision makers.

"We had an extension state advisory group up until four years ago, when we initiated the University of Delaware's Visiting Committee on Agriculture," said Fowler. "The visiting committee's direction is more university research and education-oriented, which is indispensable to our success. But another segment of our population — program leaders and volunteers at the local level with their direct knowledge of grassroots issues — had a contribution to make as well."

State agricultural leaders and extension volunteers throughout Delaware encouraged Fowler and Nye to reestablish the State Advisory Council to complement both the university's and extension's goals.

"Because these volunteers are directly involved in extension outreach, they are invaluable in advancing our programs," said Fowler. "They know from first-hand experience the positive results Extension programming has on the citizens of Delaware."

Twelve representatives of the 16-member State Advisory Council were drawn from county advisory committees, which are made up of 4-H leaders, agricultural leaders, Master Gardeners, Master Foods Educators, and Master Financial Counselors. The remaining four representatives were selected at-large.

The members of the newly formed committee are Nathan Beasley, Ron Breeding, Donald Bullock, George Collins, Mary Fennemore, John Glenn, Laura Hill, Jamie Jamison, Sam Latham, Dale Ockles, Bea Phillips, Kay Powell, Rodney Reynolds, Kim Robbins, Jean Skibinski and B.J. VanKavelaar.

Simmental Juniors Face Busy Summer

BOZEMAN, Mont.—Junior members of the American Simmental Association (ASA) are looking forward to a summer filled with enjoyable, beef industry-related competition.

Five regional classics, during the month of June, followed by National Summer Classic XV in July, are on the upcoming calendar of events.

Regional classics, patterned after the National Classic, are planned at five wide-ranging locations. "There is a regional event within easy driving distance of 90 percent of our membership," said Mark Dikeman, American Junior Simmental Association (AJSA) president from Manhattan, Kan.

"Regional classics are a great place to become involved and to get warmed up for the National," Dikeman said. "We urge our members to prepare for the National Classic by studying and working at home, and by attending one or more regional classics."

Regional classics are scheduled as follows: northcentral region, June 13-15, Des Moines, Iowa; eastern region, June 18-21, Bowling Green, Ky.; southeastern region, June 22-24, Perry, Ga.; southcentral region, June 23-25, Shreveport, La.; and western region, June 25-27, Twin Falls, Idaho.

Summer Classic XV, traditionally the highlight of the AJSA year, will be held July 17-21 at Rochester, Minn. ASA staff members are working closely with the Minnesota Simmental Association (MSA) membership and University of Minnesota Animal Science staff to coordinate that event.

Rochester's Kahler Hotel serves as Classic Headquarters, with all cattle activities at the Olmsted County Fairgrounds.

An estimated 250 AJSA members are expected to participate in junior and senior divisions. Competition is held in a variety of cattle-related categories, including a herdsman's quiz; sire summary quiz; beef bowl; public speaking; sales talk; heifer exhibition (both Simmental and Simbrah breeds); showmanship; advertising and promotion; and interviewing.

Extracurricular activities on the schedule include two dances, a volleyball tournament, a barbecue cook-out, and a festive awards banquet.

Also, The Pennsylvania Simmental Association will once again hold the Pennsylvania Capitol Futurity in conjunction with the Keystone International Livestock Expo in October 1995. Once again, the purse is expected to pay $5,000. Any interested juniors or adults may contact Lee Snyder to find out where to purchase eligible heifers or bulls to participate in the Futurity. Snyder can be reached at (814) 374-4684.

This Baler Can Save Thousands Of Dollars With Increased Milk Production In Greatly Reduced Leaf Loss Obtained With Our Direct Feed Crop Flow System (Unbiased Testing Has Proven The Facts)

Your Best Buy in Balers is From Binkley & Hurst Bros., Inc.

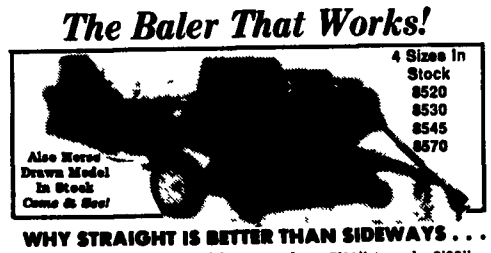
The Baler That Works!



WHY STRAIGHT IS BETTER THAN SIDEWAYS . . .

Reason #1 Transport width ranges from 7'11" to only 8'88" on our 8550 Model. Conventional balers are generally 1-foot wider in transport Reason #2 No need to widen our baler out once you're in the field or narrowing when leaving the field. The conventional baler must be narrowed and widened Reduced time and effort means money.
Reason #3 Never a need to pick up bales when opening a field and cropping them on the ground — you can even leave the bale thrower on and drop the back chute Since the baler and tractor straddles the windrow, the bales dropped on the ground from previous rounds never interferes with the operation.
Reason #4 Gauge wheels are mounted on both sides for better performance Not so with conventional balers
Reason #5 Our pickup is half the height of conventional belers This means less leaves are lost because less travel distance up and over the pickup is required An optional hydraulic pickup lift is even available
Reason #6 Conventional balers use high maintenance cross feeders or sweep arms to move hay to the chamber Our baler feeds hay from the pickup straight into the chamber by the use of a simple stuffer mechanism Leaves don't fall to the bottom of the chamber and later fall out the back Due to our design, leaves are placed evenly throughout the bale — the leaves are not given time to settle to the bottom
Reason #7 Due to our design, our plunger stroke distance is 25-30% less than conventional balers Example John Deere 327, 337, 347 and 467 Models = 30" stroke, Case IH 8520 = 21 6" stroke and a high of 23" on our 8550 The result Less wear, less side to side stress force and less repairs!
Reason #8 The clearance of our needles from the ground far exceeds conventional balers due to the high position of our chamber This translates to less breakage and bending of the needles due to hitting high places in the field, etc
Reason #9 We have equal baler weight distribution on both carrying wheels for easier handling and less side pull on hills
Reason #10 The distance from the end of our bale chamber to the thrower belts is enough so that the thrower doesn't fight the bale, i e , the bale is not still wedged in the chamber when the thrower first contacts the bale
Reason #11 Our bale edges are sharp and corners are square on all types of hay - excellent when stackers are used or hay is hauled by truck.
Reason #12 Proven and reliable Deering type knotters on all center line balers

CASE IH 2100 Series Axial Flow Combines

DO IT!

WITH DEPENDABILITY

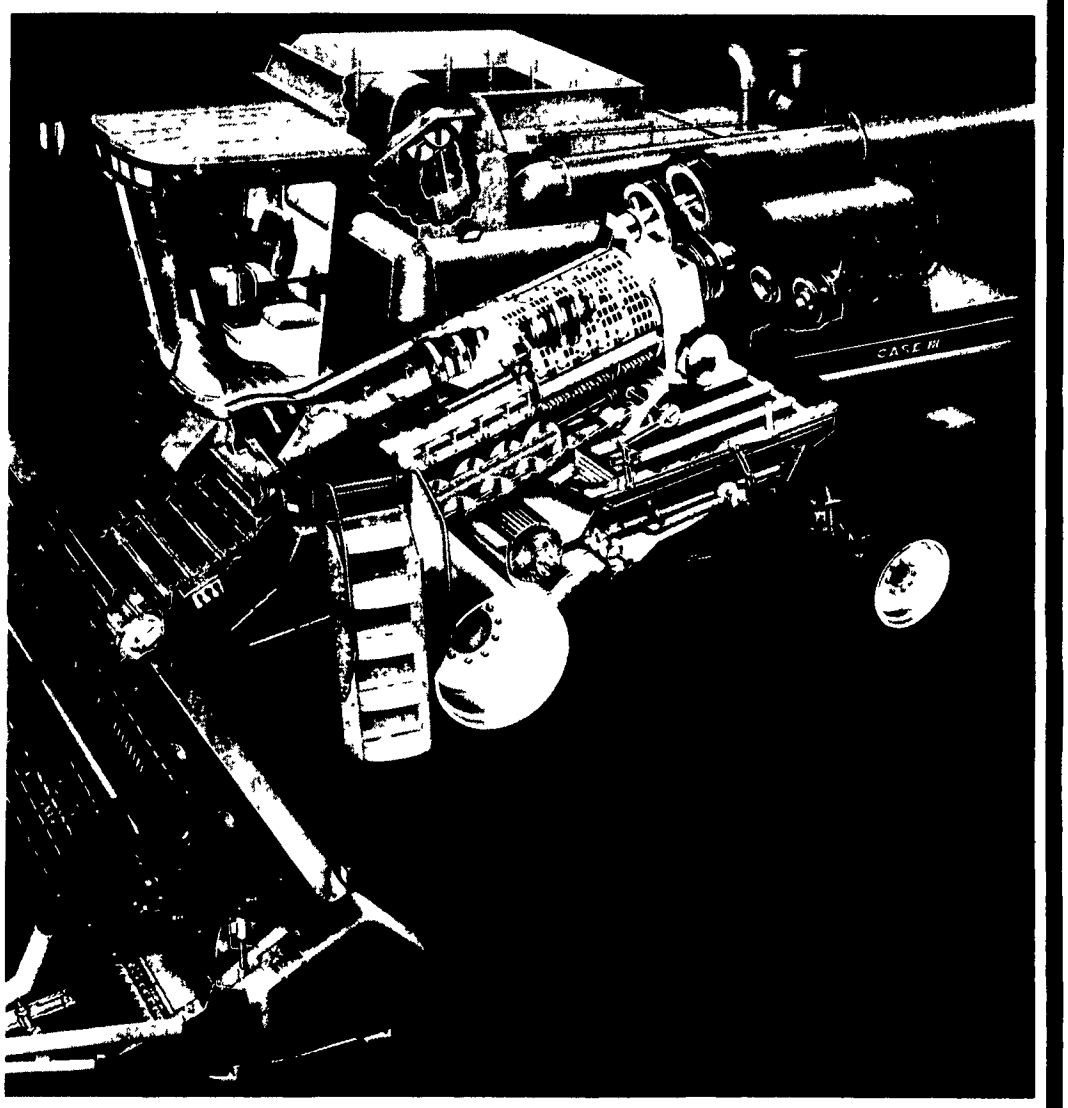
... Moving when the grain and weather conditions are fit: that is what the CASE IH Axial Flow combines do. And they are built tough to last. Many are running over 5,000 hours. How long will an Axial Flow last? We do not know yet.

WITH RELIABILITY

... Compared to conventional or other style Rotary combines, the Axial Flow puts more premium quality grain in the tank and leaves less grain in the field. Why else do most all growers of food quality corn own CASE IH Axial Flow Combines?

WITH COMFORT

... The new cab on the 2100 Series makes your long days seem shorter, because the controls you use most are on the HYDRO-PROPULSION Lever which is attached to the seat. You have less operator stress - therefore, more personal productivity per day.



WITH A COMBINE DEALER

... C. B. HOOBER & SON INC. HAS SPECIALIZED IN COMBINES SALES AND SERVICE SINCE THE AXIAL FLOW WAS INTRODUCED IN 1977. (7) HOOBER SERVICEMEN ARE FACTORY TRAINED TO WORK ON AXIAL FLOW COMBINES YEAR ROUND - NOT JUST DURING COMBINE SEASON. AND OUR MECHANICS SERVICE OVER 300 AXIAL FLOW COMBINES. CAN YOU GET THAT KIND OF SUPPORT ANYWHERE ELSE?

Get the Advantage of the Unbeatable COMBINE COMBINATION: The CASE IH Axial Flow Combine and HOOBER Service.

CLAAS® Rollant round balers give you what you want

—one quality round bale after another.

Discover Quality...Discover Value...

The Rollant 66 makes fast work of 4'x5' bales. Its unique two-stage pick-up and close tines produce a clean, efficient harvest in less time. Rollatex netting wraps a bale in 10 seconds or less, and double-twine wraps it up in just 20.

The Rollant 46 introduced CLAAS's innovative fixed bale chamber to the marketplace. This versatile baler handles all farm operations from dry hay to silage. Nobody produces a better 4'x4' bale.

The Rollant 42 was designed for family livestock operations. This economical investment produces weather-tight 4'x4' bales for the highest nutrient content possible.

CLAAS bales mean nutrient-filled edible hay, low spoilage, and high crude protein retention.

Each Rollant offers the innovative chamber, low-profile pick-up, and world class dependability. And they all share CLAAS's international reputation for low maintenance, durability and long-life.

Call now to see how you can improve the round figures on your bottom line.

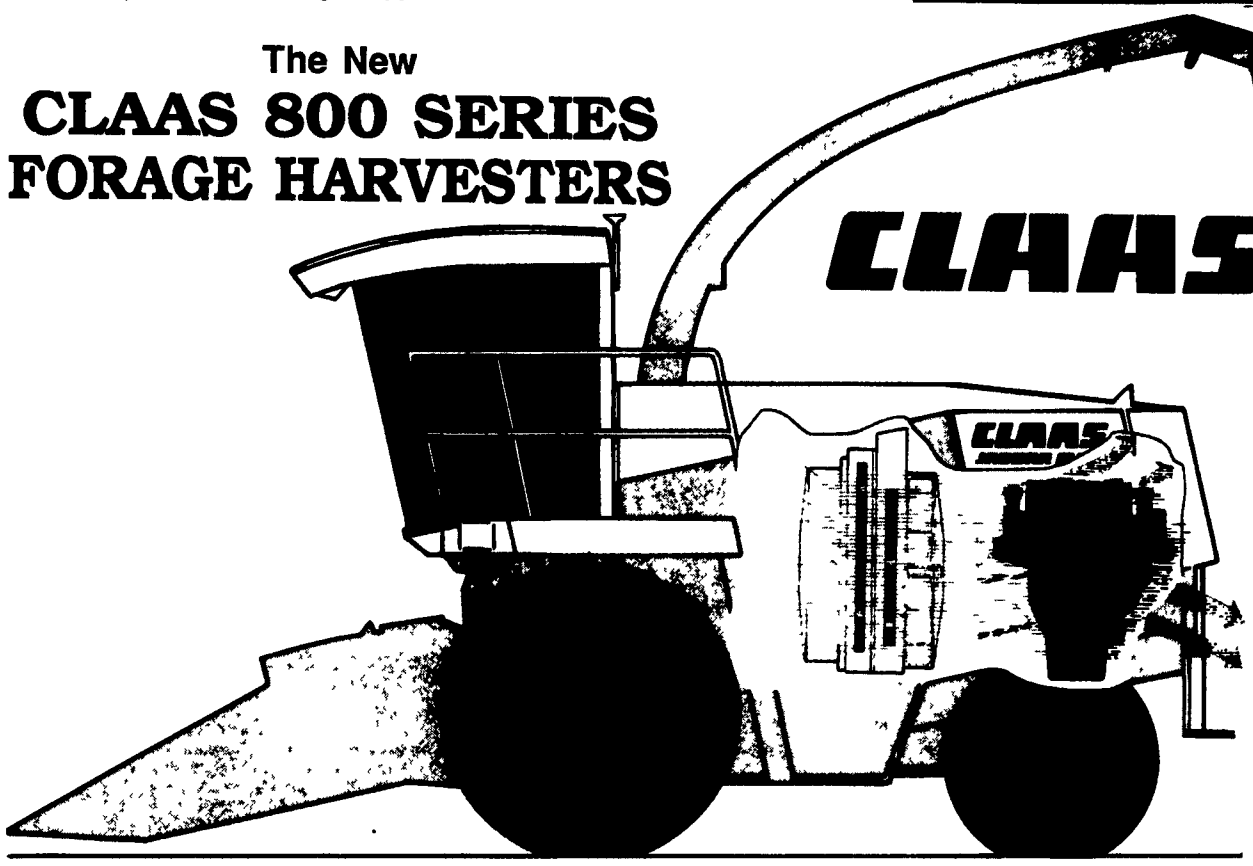
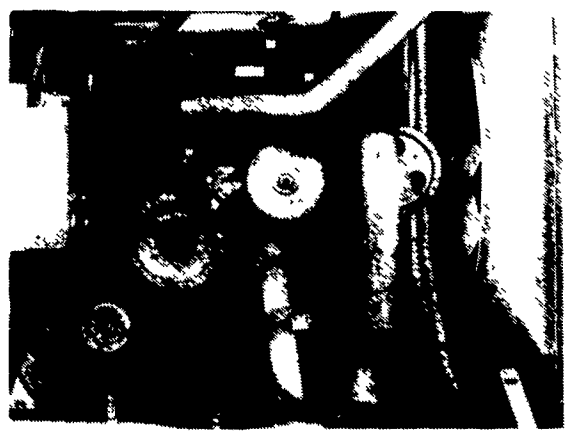
The New CLAAS 800 SERIES FORAGE HARVESTERS





The cooling system is unique and features an enormous cooling area. The air is sucked in via a rotating screen from the front, working with, not against the travel speed. The cooling area is enormous

Accesibility to the cooling system is excellent. The oil cooler, air conditioning and the engine radiator are all easy to get to in seconds. All you need to do is open up the hinged rotating screen, and that's it. A typical example of the attention to detail which makes servicing of this machine so straightforward.

Air is then discharged via the rear. Apart from its outstanding effectiveness, this system keeps the temperature in the cab down as well.

MF Dynashift™ transmissions get top reviews.

Your left hand controls a 4-speed powershift transmission for smooth, clutchless shifts under load and outstanding productivity.

Your right hand controls an 8-speed synchronized transmission with synchronized forward/reverse shuttle.

MASSEY FERGUSON

Together you get a tractor with 32 forward and 32 reverse speeds that's more productive than a manual shift and more economical and reliable than a powershift. Test drive a Dynashift transmission today on one of these outstanding MF tractors:

PURINA PROFILE

FRANKLIN FEED & SUPPLY

If you have visited Franklin Feed and Supply near Chambersburg lately, you know the company has just enlarged the facilities at the feed mill to accommodate the growing business with an additional 800 square feet of office and show room space.

This latest expansion continues the progression that started in 1965 when a group of local farmers and businesspersons purchased Walker Bros. to continue the Purina dealership in the area. In 1974, the business was moved from Hood Street to its present location along route 11 at 1977 Philadelphia Ave.

In 1987, the two major enterprises were divided into the pet and hardware retail store at the front of the property and the feed mill and farm service area to the rear.

Today, 80 stockholders form the backbone of the growing business. Sam Miller is general manager and John Nimmon and John Sempowski are the farm consultants.

Of course, custom formulated dairy rations using Purina high performance concentrates are a specialty. Servicing a 35 mile wide area, the mill has a 294,000 bin capacity to handle grain storage.

The two farm consultants handle on-farm ration formulation and 28 employees with 10 trucks work to make good service a major part of what they offer to customers.

Another trademark of the business is the personal touch. If you need large tonnage delivered to your farm, you can get it from Franklin Feed and Supply. But 50 pounds of grain mix for three little lambs is not too small of an order.

"We are fortunate to have a good customer base that is easy to deal with," Frank said. "Some of the best people are in the farming community. We are serving the second and third generation of farmers in this area. And business principles have not really changed. If you give people service and treat them right, that's the main thing.

"For us it has always been Purina. They have always been able to assist us and stand behind us in the changing agricultural scene. Purina keeps us up to date with new programs, products, and ideas. They are big on research, too.

"The major thing we would say to our customers is 'thank you!' Without customers, you have no business.
